Chief Executive Vows Fight To 'Keep My Party Liberal'

Roosevelt Defends Right to Enter State Primaries in Address Appealing for Lewis' Election.

FAILS TO MENTION NAME OF TYDINGS

Aims Barb at Those Who, He Says, Pretend To Be One, Act as Another.

Text of Address Appears in Page 10.

DENTON, Md., Sept. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt appealed to the Democrats of Maryland today to send Representative David J. Lewis to the senate, asserting that the party would receive the support of the nation only "so long as it remains a liberal party."

"As the leader of the party," he added, "I propose to try to keep it liberal."

The chief executive spoke to a crowd of eastern shore farm folk, gathered with their picnic lunches in country fair fashion and holiday mood under the sycamore trees that surround Caroline county's red brick courthouse.

He made no mention of the name of Senator Millard E. Tydings, Lewis' opponent for the senatorial nomination, whom the chief executive accused a fortnight ago of having "betrayed" the New Deal.

Cites Lewis' Record. And in naming Lewis he departed in dramatic fashion from his prepared text, which had, however, made clear the purpose of his coming to the eastern shore, through paragraphs recounting Lewis' long career as a state and national legislator.

Years ago, he said, a young legislator engaged in pioneering efforts which led to workmen's compensation legislation in Maryland, the first such law in the United States, and to parcel post legislation by congress. Later he led in the movement for social security legislation, the President added.

At this point, Mr. Roosevelt temporarily abandoned his manuscript, looked out across the crowd and asserted there was no need for telling the people of Maryland who the legislator was.

"I don't have to name that young man, now well along in mature middle age," he said, "but my friends in the other 47 states—for their benefit if they don't know—the name of that man is Representative Lewis, of Maryland."

Dreams Come True. Cheers and applause greeted this assertion, and the President resumed his prepared speech.

"It is the privilege of some of us to dream dreams," he said, "and of some of us to carry out the dreams of others. But in Maryland you are fortunate in having a man who not only has seen visions but made them come true."

Although there was no mention of Tydings' name, those who recalled the President's previous

Death Stills Holiday Joys, 321 Lie Dead

By The Associated Press.

Death played its usual tragic role in the holiday of America's millions. Reports from the 48 states and the District of Columbia last night showed 321 violent deaths and the list was still mounting for the extended Labor Day week end. Heavy homeward-bound traffic was expected to send many more to the undertaker or to hospitals.

America's chief life-taker, the auto, killed at least 225. Drownings, stablings, shootings, boat explosions, train mishaps, suicides, fires, lightning and freak mishaps also reaped their toll. In New York a penniless woman plunged to death from the roof of a six-story hotel where she owed rent.

Ohio Leads. A parachute jumper in Pennsylvania, a mountain climber in the Adirondacks, a suffocation victim in a home-made diving suit in Missouri joined in the grim parade.

Five were killed and 28 injured when a light sedan collided with a bus near Charlotte, N. C. A car-train crash near Meredith, N. H., claimed five lives and three motorists burned to death in California. The largest number of violent deaths was recorded in Ohio, where 28 died, 26 in auto smash-ups. California and Michigan with 25 each, and New York and Illinois with 21 each followed in the list.

Deaths by States—Alabama, 3; Arkansas, 3; California, 25; Colorado, 3; Connecticut, 5; Delaware, 3; District of Columbia, 4; Florida, 3; Georgia, 5; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 21; Indiana, 13; Iowa, 10; Kansas, 1; Kentucky, 11; Louisiana, 7; Maine, 1; Maryland, 2; Massachusetts, 6; Michigan, 25; Minnesota, 6; Mississippi, 4; Missouri, 10; Montana, 3; Nebraska, 2; New Hampshire, 6; New Jersey, 14; New York, 21; North Carolina, 2; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 28; Oklahoma, 1; Oregon, 2; Pennsylvania, 12; South Carolina, 3; South Dakota, 1; Tennessee, 11; Texas, 7; Utah, 1; Vermont, 7; Virginia, 6; Washington, 4; West Virginia, 1; Wisconsin, 10; Wyoming, 1.

SMITH'S MAJORITY. COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Senator E. D. Smith's majority over Governor Olin D. Johnston, who had President Roosevelt's endorsement, was placed at 36,082 votes today by the South Carolina Democratic executive committee, in officially declaring the results of last Tuesday's primary.

City Workers March Despite Rain, Exhibit the True Spirit of America

By LUKE GREENE. A steady downpour of rain failed to halt Atlanta's workingmen and women yesterday as legion after legion paraded through the downtown district in celebration of Labor Day.

Thousands of laborers bearing their banners marched behind brass bands and elaborate floats, while thousands of holiday spectators who lined the sidewalk's to watch the parade sought the shelter of awnings and umbrellas when the rain began.

But in spite of the damp atmosphere it was a picturesque procession. The rain began soon after the parade got under way at Mitchell and Washington streets and continued throughout the more than 30 minutes of marching.

CANDIDATES LAUD LABORING MASSES AS WORKERS REST

Office-Seekers Vie for Their Support; Many Atlantans Visit Resorts During the Week End.

Hundreds of thousands of Atlantans and Georgians, who yesterday rested from their labors in tribute to the workingman, will march back to their jobs this morning after celebrating the 56th annual Labor Day holiday.

Ringed praises of the laborer and his cause were sung from political stumps over the state as candidates for public offices, ranging from candidate for senator to local positions took advantage of the crowds assembled at various places to observe programs eulogizing the man who works.

In most of the cities and towns of the state, speeches and many types of entertainment featured the observance.

A parade which defied a soaking deluge highlighted the Labor Day program in Atlanta, which began early in the morning with broadcast addresses of state and city labor leaders.

Crowds at Races. Huge crowds flocked to the races at Lakewood park and to the double-header ball game between the Atlanta and Little Rock teams at Ponce de Leon baseball park.

In addition, many barbecues and picnics drew attention at other parks in and around the city. Police in Atlanta and Fulton county reported everything "quiet" with few automobile accidents and an exceptionally small number of "drunks" locked up.

The Labor Day celebration marked the season's close for the Atlanta park swimming pools, where, despite the cooling rain, many youngsters and oldsters came for the final dip.

Transportation companies reported that Atlantans taking advantage of the long week end to go to mountain, country and sea resorts rivaled the mass exodus of July 4.

Labor Advances Cited. The advances made by labor and the objectives of the labor movement were the subjects of speeches delivered by labor leaders at the beginning of the program in Atlanta.

Speakers were Charles B. Gramling, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Dewey L. Johnston, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, which sponsored

French Troops Off To Face German Soldiers Again

War games recently enacted by these members of France's famous "Blue Devils," shown operating a heavy type machine gun, may be projected into grim reality if Hitler marches into Czechoslovakia.

French troops are on the march again to the border fortifications facing Germany as massing of a huge military machine on the other side of the line causes grave concern to France. These troops, with bayonets fixed, were answering the threat—two years ago—of Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland.

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN STATE WRECKS

3 Additional Fatalities Reported, Adding to Heavy Week-End List.

The death toll on Georgia highways over the week end reached five last night as three additional fatalities were reported.

Automobile accidents also brought injury to many persons, and in Atlanta, the death of Dr. V. Clyde Givens, who was injured August 27 by a hit-and-run car at Bankhead avenue and Chestnut street brought to 35 the total number of traffic deaths within city limits since the first of the year.

Victims of fatal crashes included J. Henry Turner, 36, of 3206 North avenue, N. W., general manager of the Southern Iron & Equipment Company and widely known in road-building circles.

Turner was instantly killed Sunday when a car driven by his wife crashed down an embankment on the new Buford highway, just beyond Clairmont drive. Mrs. Turner was slightly injured. The accident occurred as Mrs. Turner swerved to avoid striking another car which had halted abruptly.

Passenger Injured. Another passenger in the Turner car, Mrs. Lee Wallace, 36, of 1220 Peachtree street, was admitted to St. Joseph's infirmary, in fair condition. Mrs. Wallace is a close friend and week end guest of the Turners. Mrs. Turner was treated at home by a physician.

Turner was a native of Elberton, and had lived in Atlanta for 25 years. He was a Mason and a member of the Atlanta Athletic Club. Besides the wife and brother, surviving are another brother, Ernest H. Turner, and four sisters, Mrs. J. W. Livingston, Mrs. A. F. Henry, Mrs. J. R. Gillespie and Miss Virginia Turner.

Final rites will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, with the Rev. Van Arnold officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Boy Abducts Teacher As Class Looks

Farmer Rescues Pretty School Ma'am With an Unloaded Shotgun.

PARIS, Mo., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A farmer with an unloaded shotgun rescued a pretty rural school teacher from her abductor today less than two hours after she was snatched from her horrified class of children.

Sheriff Wilkes said the girl, 23-year-old Elinor Fern Dooley, was unharmed.

Farmer Clarence Young, who forgot his shells when he grabbed his double-barreled shotgun to join a posse, came upon Miss Dooley in a corn field two miles from the school.

Young said a youth, who was threatening the girl with a knife surrendered without resistance. He was held tonight in the county jail.

Sheriff Wilkes identified the youth as Gerald Delmore, 14, who formerly lived in this vicinity.

Miss Dooley said the youth, large for his age, came into Washington school, nine miles north of Paris, 30 minutes after she "took up" class this morning.

"He had an open knife in his left hand and had his right hand in his pocket, holding a stick so that it looked like he had a gun," she related.

"Keep quiet," she said he growled, threatening to harm the children. "Come with me."

As they left the building, she said, the youth turned and warned the children to "stay here till 4 o'clock or I'll fill your teacher full of lead."

Instead of heeding the warning, Norman Ewing, 13, ran to call help.

Sheriff Wilkes called out an estimated 100 farmers who gathered whatever weapons they could find. Most of them had shotguns or rifles.

CHILE SUPPRESSES PUTSCH BY NAZIS

Ex-President Arrested; One Policeman Is Slain; Others Are Feared Dead

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 5.—(AP)—A Chilean Nazi putch expired today before a hail of federal police bullets, hand grenades, machine gun, artillery and tank fire.

For more than three hours the center of Santiago was kept in turmoil after Chilean Nazis, who wear brown overalls as a uniform, seized the National University, which faces the presidential palace, and the 10-story Workers' Insurance building, which commands the palace at the rear.

But three and a half hours after the carabinieri—federal police—had swung into action with their heavy weapons it was all over despite the blaze of fire from small arms which the Nazis let loose.

After putting down the Nazi adventure which carabinieri officers termed "mad" because it lacked numerical strength and military support, the results were: One carabinieri dead, and a dozen persons officially reported

Roscoe Turner Sets New Record To Win Thompson Race 2d Time

300,000 See Intrepid Airman Pocket $22,000 as First Prize.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Roscoe Turner, speed merchant from Chicago, today won the classic Thompson 300-mile Labor Day air race at Cleveland airport, before a crowd of some 300,000 persons, and pocketed $22,000, the award for first place and a new speed record for the event.

Seizing the lead from Earl Ortman, of Los Angeles, at the 60-mile mark, the uniformed Turner, who twice had lost the big money Thompson race by cutting pylons

NATION IS PLACED ON WARLIKE BASIS IN FEAR OF NAZIS

Czech Cabinet Formulates 'Last and Ultimate' Offer to Sudeten Minority on 8-Point Demand.

RUNCIMAN CODES LETTER TO LONDON

Hundreds of Thousands Welcome Der Fuehrer to Nurnberg Congress.

PRAHA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Political ministers of the Czechoslovak cabinet tonight formulated what was described as "a last and ultimate offer" to the Sudeten party which a few hours earlier declared "only by speedy adoption" of its eight-point program "can the situation be remedied."

The ministers, after a four and one-half hour session in Hradchany palace, the residence of President Eduard Benes, issued a communique stating "definite suggestions in the next day or two will be presented to representatives of the Sudeten party."

Must Show Solidarity. It was a calm and unexciting statement, betraying no hint that the session may vitally influence decisions on the question of war or peace.

"All responsible elements of the government are filled with the conviction that in this European crisis Czechoslovakia must demonstrate solidarity with its allies and is obliged to make every contribution consistent with the national honor to uphold peace," the spokesman said.

There was nothing either official or unofficial to indicate that any military measures were discussed by the ministers. It was indicated in government circles that many of the demands contained in the Sudeten's eight-point autonomy program had been "met halfway."

Won't Scrap Pact. But it was stated that Czechoslovakia has answered with a definite "no" the insistence in some German quarters that the republic abandon its alliance with France and Soviet Russia.

Nor is it willing to give its 3,500,000 Germanic population much greater voice in determining military policy.

The Sudeten statement was the first official announcement by the party since its leader, Konrad Henlein, conferred with Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, in Bavaria last week. It was issued after Henlein had called his party subleaders to his home at Asch in the afternoon.

The statement said that the subleaders and Henlein had considered "concrete abuses" of the Sudeten

Warships Loaded With Ammunition as 'Unavoidable Precaution' in Fear of Stroke by Hitler

500,000 ARE MASSED BY PARIS COMMAND

Nazis Reported Planning Demand for Plebiscite and Then an Invasion.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Belgian cabinet, notified that France had called up army reserves, asked King Leopold tonight to return immediately from vacation in Italy. The action was taken at a special cabinet session.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—(UP)—France tonight poured reserves into her Maginot line of fortifications, cancelled all army and air force furloughs and loaded warships with ammunition as "unavoidable precautions" against Germany's massing of troops across the Rhineland frontier.

Premier Daladier, who also is minister of war, quickly brought the nation to warlike footing in what may be the preliminary of partial mobilization by the calling up of conscript classes.

Daladier placed full blame for the extraordinary defense measures upon Fuehrer Hitler, of Germany, who has put 1,350,000 troops in the field in recent weeks and has stationed an estimated four divisions—somewhere between 70,000 and 100,000 men—in his new Siegfried line which faces the Maginot line.

Any Eventuality. "We are doing everything to be ready for any eventuality," Daladier's spokesman said.

There were reports that France feared Hitler may go before the Nuremberg Nazi congress and demand a plebiscite among the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia on the question of their absorption by Germany.

Hitler was rumored to have told Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, that Britain will refuse to fight and that Germany is ready to "go the limit."

Genevieve Tabouis, writing in L'Ouvre, said that soon after the plebiscite demand Hitler would "invade the Sudeten territory to aid his German brothers in their difficulty." He and his generals consider that three days will suffice to occupy the Sudetenland and precise orders already have been given to German troops.

Extends to Civil Workers. Daladier's order putting the army, navy and air force in fighting trim were extended to workers in the key government ministries in Paris, the gendarmerie posts, district prefectures, postal, telephone and telegraph employees.

All were instructed to remain at

HOSPITAL TO GIVE ITS SERVICES FREE TO GEORGIA'S POOR

South Wing of St. Joseph's Infirmary Remodeled for Work.

The out-patient diagnostic clinic, dedicated to the service of poor Georgia rural residents, has been completed and is in operation. St. Joseph's infirmary officials have announced.

The south wing of the hospital has been remodeled and equipped with modern X-ray apparatus, a complete diagnostic laboratory, physiotherapy and examination rooms. Work on the clinic has been in progress for the last six months.

The only clinic of its kind in this section, and believed to be the only one in America dedicated to the free service of the rural poor, it has been designed as an aid to country doctors in treating their charity patients. Hospital officials point out that many doctors in rural sparsely settled counties have no place to send poor patients where their condition may be determined by examinations with modern equipment.

Services Are Free.
It will serve, free of any charge, only poor from Georgia counties within 150 miles of Atlanta. Residents of Fulton county will not be treated, officials said, because they have access to Grady hospital and other local charitable institutions, and the hospital wishes to devote its new facilities to those who otherwise would be unable to obtain such services.

The clinic staff will number about 30, including some of Atlanta's leading specialists. Examinations can be given 25 persons a day, it was said.
To be eligible for admission to the clinic, a patient must be unable to pay, and should have a letter from his most recent attending physician and his pastor, stating that he is without funds. The patient's financial condition will be investigated by a credit company.

Complete Study.
After admission, a complete study will be made of the patient's condition, and a report will be forwarded by his local physician, if the patient can be sent home for treatment. If immediate medical or surgical treatment is found necessary, arrangements for hospitalization can be made through the sister in charge of the clinic. If the patient's physician so requests, the clinic will make further studies to determine the patient's response to the prescribed treatment.
St. Joseph's infirmary, located on Courtland street between Baker and Harris streets, is owned and operated by the Sisters of Mercy. Sister Superior Mary Brendan is director of the hospital and the clinic.

wounded. Reports were current, however, that the death list might reach 20.

More than 80 Nazis were under arrest after running up the white flag over the two buildings.

General Carlos Ibanez, former president and candidate in the elections October 25 to succeed President Arturo Alessandri and with whose candidacy the Nazi putsch was believed connected, was under arrest.

Also under arrest was his chief aide, Colonel Tobias Barros, whom President Alessandri cashiered last January.

An order for the arrest of Jorge Gonzalez von Maree, leader of the Nazis and the only Nazi deputy in the national chamber, had been issued.

A state of siege was declared by the government.

Doors Battered Down.

The putsch, discovered prematurely, neared its end when the carabinieri had a .75 millimeter field piece set up on the tree-lined Avenida Alameda de Las Delicias.

Guns fired two shells which battered down the main doors to the university. The Nazis hoisted the white flag as the federal police—all picked men and army veterans—aided by tanks and supporting fire dashed across the square and into the building.

Fifty Nazi youths, many of them wounded, were arrested inside.

Police then began a systematic clearing out of the insurance building, fighting their way from floor to floor.

ROOSEVELT VOWS LIBERALISM FIGHT

President Appeals to Maryland To Send David Lewis to U. S. Senate.

characterization of the senator were quick to believe that several barbed statements in the speech were meant for him, and notably one in particular:

"Discussing liberals vs. conservatives, the President said, 'any man—any political party—has the right to be honestly one or the other, but the nation cannot stand for the confusion of having him pretend to be one and act like the other.'"

The address contained, as well, two additional themes that ran throughout its paragraphs. First, and with great emphasis, the President defended his "right" to go into any state and deliver such an address, a right that has been vigorously challenged by his critics. And secondly, he reiterated again and again an assertion that labor and the farmer are "partners," with a common interest. A "minority" in the country, he said, was endeavoring to "drive a wedge" between the two.

Best for Nation.
And after expressing his determination to keep the Democratic party "liberal" and saying that "as President" he thought that to be the "best course" not only for the party but for the country as a whole, he added:

"And I have the right in sincerity and honesty to make that statement in any state, in any county and in any community in the United States of America."

The eastern shore was chosen for the chief executive's address because many students of Maryland politics, in sizing up the possible outcome of the Lewis-Tydings contest, say that the shore counties hold a key position, that their votes may determine which way the contest will go. Denton is centrally located on the shore.

After spending the night aboard the presidential yacht in Chesapeake bay, the President debarked this morning at Crisfield, and motored to Denton, making two brief speeches to crowds gathered en route.

From Denton the President motored to Matapoke, where he was joined by Governor Harry W. Nice, of Maryland.

A ferry conveyed by a flotilla of private boats took the presidential party across Chesapeake bay to Annapolis.

Mr. Roosevelt then headed for Washington, for a stay of a few hours there before departing by special train for Hyde Park, N. Y.

YOUTH, 17, SHOTS SELF.

GLENDAL, Cal., Sept. 5.—(P)—Police today pondered the case of a 17-year-old high school student who, they said, admitted he shot himself with a rifle Friday "to get in right" with a girl.
Still suffering pain from a bullet wound in his left side, Warren J. Murphy told his story in a hospital to Captain Walter E. Hegl.

ALLEGORY SHOWS ROOSEVELT'S POINT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 5.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, Washington-bound from Denton, Md., where he blasted reactionary forces in government, indulged in a simple allegory late today to further illustrate his point.

Making a brief address on the campus of St. John's College, Mr. Roosevelt added:
"The old historic buildings here would not be in use today if they had not been modernized. The same applies to government."

"We have a historic government, but it needs to be constantly modernized. I think you get what I mean."

LOYALISTS' LINES BENT BY REBELS

Heavy Guns Back Up Drive Into Strategic Gandeda Area.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Sept. 5.—(P)—Spanish insurgent field reports asserted today General Juan Yague's troops drove east in the Ebro river sector to dominate strategic government communications near Gandeda.

They reported the important cross-roads position of Venta de Camposines, nearly eight miles northeast of Gandeda, was under a continual heavy artillery bombardment.

This fire, the Insurgents said, prevented government forces from moving out of the fighting area and held reinforcements from moving into the zone from their bases at Estrella, Asco and Mora de Ebro.

Insurgent dispatches earlier had reported that the government lines had been pushed back an average of four miles on the Ebro front in the offensive launched Saturday.

Field bulletins said the main insurgent line in the zone ran almost directly from Fayon, on the Ebro river 17 miles northwest of Gandeda, to Benifallet, 12 1-2 miles southeast of the same city.

Cloudy, Little Change In Mercury Forecast

Partly cloudy with little change in temperature is Atlanta's weather forecast for the day. The temperature is expected to range between 70 and 86 degrees.

Yesterday's high at Candler field was 84. The lowest reading obtained yesterday morning was 70. Scattered showers over Labor Day did little toward lowering the city's rainfall deficiency of more than seven inches, but light rains and the constant threat of more rain kept holiday picnickers busy keeping themselves and their sandwiches dry.

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN STATE WRECKS

Three Additional Fatalities Reported, Adding to Heavy Week-End List.

Sunday of injuries suffered in an automobile crash Saturday night on the Lafayette highway. Sheriff Creed Shelby, of Walker county, said the Bailey car struck a car parked without lights.

The sheriff said Burns was owner of the car which Bailey's vehicle struck.

Bailey's wife and their son, George Bailey Jr., suffered minor injuries. Final rites for Bailey will be held today.

Another fatal motor crash occurred when a truck driven by Marion Queen, 35, a farmer, of Monroe, struck a tree on a rural road near Monroe. Cause of the accident was not learned. Queen is survived by his wife and five children.

Cutter Borders, 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Borders, of LaGrange, died Sunday afternoon of injuries suffered when he was tossed from his car on the Highland County Club road.

According to reports, Borders lost control of the vehicle on a curve and skidded into a car driven by Mrs. Tom McLain. Borders was instantly killed. Mrs. McLain and other occupants of the car, her son, Tommy McLain, and

Lottery Writers Busy on Holiday

Lottery writers did not take a holiday on Labor Day, although stock and bond markets were closed and there was no "bug" to play, policemen said. J. A. McKibben, superintendent of Atlanta detectives, said he learned that lottery writers were taking bets on today's "bug" while thousands of workmen observed the holiday yesterday. The consolidated city and county lottery squads went about their work as usual.

Ermett Morgan Jr. were unhurt. Miss Christine Brand and John Thompson, both of LaGrange, were occupants of the Borders car, and suffered minor injuries. They required hospital treatment, however.

Bridge Tender Killed.
At Savannah, another fatality occurred when Thomas Nixon, tender of the Bull River bridge on Tybee road, was killed on the bridge by a truck and trailer.

W. M. Harrington, of Milledgeville, was listed as driver of the truck and trailer. Police reported Nixon was standing on a curb at the side of the bridge when he was struck. The truck and trailer were moving slowly, witnesses said.

Dr. Givens, 62, a pharmacist in a Bankhead avenue drug store, and who lived at 512 Lakeshore drive, N. E., was killed by a hit-run car, according to police reports.

Radio Patrolmen C. T. Sweatman and H. T. Waters said the hit-run car first struck a small automobile, then careened between the pumps of a filling station and struck the pedestrian. The car then continued toward town after striking down Dr. Givens.

Search for the driver of the hit-run car is still being continued, police said. Dr. Givens died in Grady hospital yesterday afternoon and the body was taken to H. M. Patterson & Son's funeral establishment.

Among various accidents in the city, Billy Byrd, 16, of 514 Mues street, was seriously injured when the bicycle he was riding became entangled in the mechanism under the front of a street car at Gordon street and Cascade road. The boy suffered a fractured right leg. He was admitted to Crawford W. Long Memorial hospital.

Ernest Bryant, 32, of 1058 Bidle avenue, S. W., and E. W. Moss, 40, of 189 Woodward avenue, S. W., were bruised yesterday when a car driven by E. H. Benefield, of 733 Boulevard, N. E., skidded into a telephone pole at Piedmont and Ponce de Leon avenues.

A reckless driving charge was placed against Benefield. His companions were treated at Grady hospital.

Surviving Dr. Givens are a daughter, Miss Mary Givens, of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. A. F. Crawford, of Smyrna, Ga., and Mrs. W. H. Johnston, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill by the Rev. E. J. Fawell and Woolsey Couch. Burial will be in the Palmetto (Ga.) cemetery.

JERE WELLS EXPLAINS
VARIED SCHOOL FEES

Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, yesterday explained that the difference in supply fees charged white and negro students is caused by the fact that more is required of white students and they, therefore, use more supplies.

"We purchase all supplies at wholesale and charge patrons only what we are forced to pay," Wells asserted. "In that way, students pay only about one-half what they would be required to expend if they bought their supplies on the retail market."

"It is optional with parents as to whether they pay the supply fees or equip their children with supplies."

Governor's Tax Figures 'Deceive,'
Howell Charges, Giving Own List

Candidate Issues Data Designed To Refute Rivers' Claims That County Benefits Have Been Increased and Burdens Decreased at Same Time.

By The Associated Press.

Gubernatorial Candidate Hugh Howell reiterated yesterday a charge that a list of county tax figures released by Governor Rivers' campaign headquarters was "intended to deceive" and issued tax data designed to refute the Governor's claims.

Howell issued figures on the same counties cited by the Governor's headquarters last week in connection with Rivers' claim that his administration has greatly increased governmental benefits in many counties while cutting tax burdens.

Soon after Rivers' headquarters issued its list last Thursday, Howell charged in a speech at Jeffersonville the Governor was trying to convey the impression property taxes were the only ones paid by these counties.

A statement from Howell's campaign headquarters, issued along with the figures, said:

"In order that the people of those counties and other counties of Georgia may have the real facts, I have had my office prepare the amount of taxes paid by each of the counties (listed by Rivers). These figures are based on the auditor's report for the year just ended."

"As an illustration, the people of Appling county buy gasoline and they pay a part of the gasoline taxes received by the state. They buy cigarettes and cigars, they pay income tax, they pay beer tax, they pay license fees and they pay on all the many special taxes collected by the state."

"These special taxes collected by the state government amount to more than $12 per capita for each man, woman and child in the state."

Howell discussed the figures in speeches at Statesville, Valdosta, Homerville and Fargo yesterday. Here are the figures:

Rivers' Quarters
Makes Statement

Rivers' campaign headquarters stated yesterday, "the figures released by this headquarters a few days ago showed how much property taxes citizens of the counties listed paid to the state and how much the state paid the counties for textbooks and schools in excess of the property taxes their citizens paid into the state treasury."

"The figures were not intended to represent the entire tax payment to the state by citizens and corporations. Nor were they intended to show how much the state pays back into the counties in gasoline taxes, highway construction, maintenance and old-age pensions as well as payments to crippled and dependent children."

"However, Rivers' headquarters at the present time is engaged in compiling figures showing the total tax payments to the state from citizens in the counties as well as the total amounts paid into the counties by the state for all purposes, including schools and textbooks."

"The Rivers' administration makes no claim to having created the gasoline tax and other taxes which were in existence when it took office. It reiterates, however, that the school payments by the state to the counties have been practically doubled under the Rivers' administration and that many thousands of dollars are being paid into all the counties for textbooks, schools and pensions that were not being paid before E. D. Rivers became Governor."

"And, in addition, approximately 300,000 citizens representing every county, are having their state, county and school property taxes reduced on homes and household furniture as a result of the Rivers' tax exemption laws."

MOTOR CARRIERS TO CONVEY HERE

Legislation Affecting Southern Group Will Be Discussed.

The second annual convention of the Southern Motor Carriers' rate conference will be held here September 28, 29 and 30 at the Biltmore hotel.

In addition to delegates representing truck lines from the nine southeastern states, many officials of the Bureau of Motor Carriers of the Interstate Commerce Commission are expected to attend. Recent legislation and rulings affecting motor carriers will be discussed at the business meetings. A full program of entertainment for the delegates has been planned.

Prominent figures who will attend include Director W. Y. Blanning, of the Bureau of Motor Carriers of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Ted V. Rodgers, president of the American Trucking Association, Washington, D. C.

Frank P. Morgan, sixth district supervisor of the Bureau of Motor Carriers of the ICC, has announced that he has called district supervisors of Georgia, Florida and Alabama to meet in Atlanta at the same time for conferences and discussions, and to attend some of the meetings of the Southern Motor Carriers. District Supervisors Ward Faulkner, of Nashville, and Sam C. Bleas, of Charlotte, are also expected to be present, Morgan said.

Edgar Watkins Jr., H. H. Clokey and E. S. Garrett are in charge of convention arrangements.

FULTON EXPECTED TO DEFER SETTING OF 1938 TAX RATE

Commissioners Seek To Balance Budget Without Levy Increase.

Fulton county commissioners will defer setting the 1938 county tax rate, when it meets tomorrow, and will continue negotiations to avoid any increase from the present 10-mill rate, it was predicted yesterday.

Commissioners, however, are known to be considering the necessity of increasing the rate to balance the budget if other alternatives fail, but they are reluctant to take action increasing the rate until they have exhausted every other resource, it was said.

A three-mill addition would be mandatory if the budget is balanced solely by raising the present 10-mill rate, making a total of 13 mills for the year.

James L. Respass, of Respass & Respass, county auditors, has recommended that the rate be fixed at 12.5 mills for the year, asserting that the county income from all sources will be only about $4,105,306.50, including a reduction of about $200,000 caused by home-stead and personal property exemptions.

The county budget, under which the commission is operating at the present time, calls for an aggregate expenditure of $4,938,000 for the fiscal year. Thus there is a figure of $852,693.50 to be absorbed in some manner or the rate must be increased to raise that amount if the county operates within its budget.

J. A. Ragsdale, chairman, and other members of the commission are investigating every possible avenue to escape the necessity for a tax rate raise. Respass asserts that at least a 2.5 mill increase is mandatory if services now being rendered by the county are continued.

Three Alternatives.

George F. Longino, commission member yesterday asserted the commission has not yet decided what course to pursue, but added that the only apparent alternatives were as follows:

1. Increase the tax rate to make up the deficit.
2. Curtail services, which means virtual elimination of the public works department and stoppage of all county contributions for a $3,000,000 federal government improvement program, for which the county is called upon to pay only about $250,000.

3. Agreement by banks to carry the county over until next year when the unusual demands now being made on the county for capital outlays will not be so heavy.

Chairman Ragsdale declared it would be foolish to stop county participation in federal improvement projects.

"That would be a calamity," he added.

County's Burden.

"The county's burden because of the capital outlays in which we are engaged, and loss of revenues aggregate about $1,000,000 more this year than they have in previous years."

He listed these expenditures as follows:

1. Relief payments, $360,000.

2. The metropolitan sewer program, $250,000.

3. Farm-to-market roads, $100,000.

Loss of Revenue.

$200,000 due to the home-stead and personal property exemptions.

A new effort to induce local financial institutions to agree to carry the county into next year is being considered, although no announcement of new conferences was made.

In any event, it was regarded as reasonably certain that the commission will defer setting the tax rate at its session tomorrow pending the outcome of the negotiations.

The only thing which might cause action at the meeting would be a complete breakdown of the new efforts, which it was agreed appear "extremely unlikely."

Labor Day Talk Over CIO, AFL Leads to Cutting

A Labor Day argument over the CIO and AFL sent one man to Grady hospital yesterday and another to police headquarters on a charge of suspicion of stabbing.

The wounded man was listed as Paul Alford, 50, of 183 Cleveland street, S. E. He suffered lacerations of the face, head and neck, and loss of blood. His condition last night was reported as "fair."

The alleged assailant, W. F. Wilson, 61, of 151 Estoria street, S. E., a contracting supervisor, posted bond of $300 on the stabbing charge, pending arraignment in recorder's court.

Alford told police that he was on a Soldiers' Home street car when Wilson boarded the car and took an adjoining seat. The two men began to talk about labor, and Alford mentioned the fact that CIO unions were barred from the Labor Day parade.

Both men left the car at Fair street and Park avenue. Giving his version, Wilson said that the talk continued, and that Alford struck him. He said he drew his knife to "defend himself."

Thousands Brave Rain in Tribute to City's Labor

Thousands of Atlantans braved a steady downpour of rain yesterday to watch the city's laboring men and women march in the annual Labor Day parade. Here is a general view of the procession as it went down Whitehall and Peachtree streets. Thousands of Atlanta laborers took part, and more than 30 minutes was required for the marchers to pass a given point. Note the crowds on the sidewalks seeking shelter under awnings and umbrellas.

"Organized labor has three objectives," Johnson told labor. "First, to obtain for the worker a voice in industry; second, the stabilization of industry, and third, the welfare of humanity."

He warned that labor should not engage in partisan politics, and declared it the duty of the union organizers "to defend democracy and to point out that trade unionism and democracy go hand in hand."

The labor movement must retain public confidence, he asserted, pointing out that "leaders of labor would do well to remember there is no force more powerful in the public life of a nation than public opinion, and he who tries to run contrary to public opinion properly crystallized, is bound to lose in the end."

He and others cited the fact that labor has gained better wages and shorter hours in the past few years.

The book's sale will be handled exclusively by the Oglethorpe Book Shop, it was said. The book combines a high school and college textbook on Georgia wild flowers with a clear and simple guide which makes it especially valuable in identifying various flora of the Empire state. It has a self pronouncing glossary of technical terms.

NLRB IS ASSAILED BY WILLIAM GREEN

AFL Head Demands Changes in Act.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Expressing "keen disappointment" at the administration of the national labor relations act, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, said today his organization would go to congress for changes necessary to prevent "further maladministration of the act."

"We are convinced," said Green at a Labor Day mass meeting in Roger Williams Park, "that dominating influences in the National Labor Relations Board have applied the law contrary to both its spirit and letter. We cannot and will not acquiesce in the procedure followed by members of the board."

Calling the CIO a secession movement, Green said all supporters of that organization "are giving aid and assistance to division within the ranks of labor."

HULL CHECKMATED BY MEXICO'S NOTE

Secretary Confers With Other U. S. Officials on Deadline.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull conferred today with other officials to determine what response if any to make to Mexico's note refusing to discontinue seizing American properties and to make payments toward reimbursing property holders.

He discussed the note with Laurence Duggan, chief of the Division of American Republics and with Green Hackworth, legal adviser to the department.

Persons close to the department believed the two governments had come to a deadlock in principle on the question of expropriation versus adequate compensation.

On the practical side, the question boils down to whether the United States will proceed on the basis of Mexico's acceptance of the idea of a two-man commission to evaluate the lands expropriated, with a Latin-American arbitrator to set the value should the commissioners disagree.

The American proposal of the two-man commission and the possible arbitrator, however, was predicated on Mexico's acceptance of the proposal to begin monthly payments in an escrow account toward compensation for the properties and also on her agreeing to cease further expropriations without just compensation.

Hull stated in a note of August 22:

"In the light of its experience in the unfruitful negotiations held with the Mexican government in recent years on these subjects, my government believes that, unless the government of Mexico offers satisfactory commitments on these essential matters, acceptance of the suggestions of the Mexican government would merely result in discussions which would continue over a period of many years and which would not achieve that equitable and satisfactory solution which both governments are assumed to desire."

2 FLORIDA PAPERS ARE COMBINED

Publishers Purchase Palmetto News.

SARASOTA, Fla., Sept. 5.—(AP) John B. Bradenton, publisher of the Sarasota and Bradenton News-Advertiser, today announced purchase of the Palmetto News and will combine it with the News-Advertiser, publishing the weeklies in the future at the Manatee River News in Bradenton and the Sarasota-Advertiser in Sarasota.

I. C. Cates, former editor of the Bradenton Herald, has been named editor of the combined publications. A. M. C. Russell, who published the Palmetto News, is retiring from the newspaper field.

Ringgold Opens Old Cornerstone, Finds 23 Coins

RINGGOLD, Ga., Sept. 5.—(AP) After 83 years the cornerstone of the Catoosa county courthouse lay open today as workers cleared debris from the building, razed preparatory to construction of a new $85,000 structure.

In the small square hole in the cornerstones were found 23 coins, the oldest of which was believed to be Spanish and dated 1821, and a Bible.

Moisture that had seeped through the limestone had rotted the coins. It was identified chiefly because three gilt letters, "ble," were still visible. The box which contained the coins had also rotted to fragments.

Members of the Masonic lodge selected the articles originally placed in the cornerstone, and officials said they planned to put its contents under glass for a permanent display in the lodge rooms.

The courthouse, built in 1855, cost $6,485. It was still new when Union General William T. Sherman made his march from nearby Chattanooga, Tenn., to Savannah, Ga. Sherman's forces set fire to the courthouse, but it was put out before destroying the building.

ALABAMANS STUDY GEORGIA MARKETS

Group To Come to Atlanta for Visit Today.

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A group of approximately 50 Alabama businessmen toured south Georgia today to learn how this state carries on agricultural markets, processing plants and other developments.

The Alabamians, after leaving Columbus this morning, came to Albany to visit a pecan plant and packing plant, and went thence to Pelham to see a vegetable market. Later the group planned to inspect canning plants, a state market, tobacco houses, cheese plants and packing plants at Thomasville, and a packing plant, livestock yards, a feed mill, peanut plants, hog sanitation farms and a community canning plant at Moultrie.

Tomorrow the same group is scheduled to continue its tour, visiting the coastal plain experiment station at Tifton, the state market at Macon, canning plants at Griffin, and the central market in Atlanta.

Tarleton Collier, Atlanta newspaperman, will be the principal speaker at the Exchange Club luncheon at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel. He will discuss the political situation in Georgia.

William T. Sunley, accounting expert, will address Atlanta businessmen and students of the American Academy of Accountancy at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce building.

PERKINS PLEADS FOR OLIVE BRANCH BETWEEN CIO, AFL

Rival Labor Camps, However, Open Fresh Wounds With Charges.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins observed this Labor Day with an appeal for peace between the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' CIO.

In an address prepared for delivery over a nation-wide radio network (Columbia), she deplored jurisdictional disputes between the warring labor factions and warned them that wage earners would suffer unless a reconciliation were effected.

"Discension and division inevitably lead to loss of influence and prestige of all those involved," Miss Perkins declared, "particularly in matters where the public interest may be concerned."

The effect of the secretary's appeal could not be measured immediately, but in Labor Day statements and addresses prior to her talk neither the AFL nor the Committee for Industrial Organization showed any sign of giving ground.

CIO Leaders Hit.
Joseph Padway, general counsel of the AFL, declared in an address at Omaha, Neb., that there could be no peace between the two camps "as long as the present CIO leaders demand that they shall continue to lead their unions."

"The rank and file are welcome into the AFL, but the leadership must change," he said.

Lewis was in Mexico City to attend the Latin-American Labor Congress, but in a statement issued through his office here he said the rival faction, "professing a desire for unity," had "engaged in a civil war to destroy the labor movement which the CIO has carried to such an extraordinary success."

William Green, president of the federation, charged in an address at Providence, R. I., that supporters of the CIO were giving aid and assistance to division in labor's ranks.

Lewis Plan "Old Idea."
The federation's secretary-treasurer, Frank Morrison, told an audience at Pittsburgh, Pa., that the CIO was only a new name for an old idea of one big union, which had been tried many times and had failed because it did not meet "practical requirements."

At a convention of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, CIO in St. Louis, James B. Carey, its president, set the goal of a blanket agreement with the entire electrical industry.

In another address prepared for delivery over a radio (NBC) network, Elmer F. Andrews, the wage and hour administrator, said the government was going to depend upon the people of the United States, "not upon an army of inspectors from Washington," to make effective the wage-hour law which goes into operation October 24.

He told employees:

"Preparation now to report promptly any competition based on violation of this law will be a service to other employers in your industry, to the wage earners and to the public. Every effort is being made to set up a system of inspection which can accept, investigate, examine and take proper action upon complaints of violation of the act."

Andrews said regular state agencies would be used to help enforce the law whenever possible, and that some federal inspectors would be put into the field to follow up reports of violations promptly.

MILLICAN WOULD TAKE NUMBER FROM BALLOT

A bill to make ballots absolutely secret will be introduced by G. Everett Millican if he is re-elected to the state senate, he asserted last night.

He said he would ask the legislature to adopt a bill taking the number off the ballot so that Georgians can be assured of secrecy in their vote. He promised also to resist any effort to distribute intangible tax funds to Georgia counties on the basis of highway mileage.

He reiterated his stand against additional annexations to the city of Atlanta and cited again his record of voting for all state bills favoring labor.

THE GALLUP POLL

No reasonable follower of the news can doubt the impartiality and the approximate accuracy of the American Institute of Public Opinion, better known as the "Gallup poll." For a number of years this organization has been conducting advance surveys of public opinion of coming primaries and elections. The findings are published simultaneously in the leading newspapers of the country. The percentages they have announced through these surveys have, in the vast majority of instances, come very close to the final result as decided by the voters. They have been published in this section, for years, exclusively in The Constitution.

The whole value of such surveys is their reputation for unbiased accuracy. The organization depends entirely upon its reputation, as its reason for existence. It is the accumulated record which makes its capital investment, it is the dependence which people place upon it that allows it to successfully operate.

The institute would be guilty of the most foolhardy act in the imagination of businessmen if it permitted bias to enter into any of its reports. It would be cutting its own throat, destroying the foundation of its success and sounding its own death knell. To believe that the reports it makes are anything less than completely honest, under such circumstances, would be absurd.

However, in the Institute poll of the senatorial race in Georgia, published in The Constitution last Sunday, there was one factor not taken into consideration. That is the Georgia primary system, under which it is the county unit vote, and not the popular vote, which decides. Under this system it is possible for a candidate to receive the popular vote majority, yet go down in defeat by county unit vote. The unit system makes a popular vote in Fulton county, for instance, worth only about one-thirtieth of a popular vote in Fannin.

Senator George was given, by the Gallup poll, 51 per cent of the popular vote in Georgia, if the primary should be held at this time. Lawrence Camp received 28 per cent, Eugene Talmadge 19 per cent and W. G. McRae 2 per cent.

Nothing was said, however, of the division of this vote among the counties. With such a wide margin, it is scarcely possible that Senator George should not lead. But it is possible his county unit vote, even given 51 per cent of the popular vote, would fall measurably below that percentage, thus making a runover with the next high man necessary.

The primary is to be held on September 14. There will, it is probable, be some changes in percentage of popular vote, before that day arrives. The institute is to make other test surveys in the meantime, to see how the pendulum is swinging.

Even with 51 per cent of popular vote, however, the county unit vote for Senator George cannot be forecast. If his strength is chiefly in the rural counties—the two-vote counties—a popular vote of 51 per cent would mean an even larger percentage in county unit vote. Whereas if his strength lies chiefly in such counties as Fulton, Chatham, Bibb, Muscogee, Richmond, the unit vote percentage would fall below the popular vote figure.

No test polls based on popular vote alone can give a truly accurate forecast of the primary outcome under the Georgia system.

A PLAY FOR CHRISTMAS

Proposed revival of the old Atlanta custom of giving a Biblical play at the city auditorium at Christmastime will meet with practically unanimous approval.

These plays, which tell in tableau form the story of the Bible, were truly great productions in the past and there is every reason to believe that they can exceed, today, even the high excellence of previous productions. With the new auditorium and all its conveniences, equipment and comfort, there is little doubt that the size of the crowd would be limited only by capacity at both presentations of the play.

Christmastime is the one season of the year when the thoughts of all people are turned toward that marvelous story of the Christ Child, who came to save man from his own evils. It is, in all respects, the most moving, the most dramatic and the most beautiful of stories. The spirit of the people is receptive at Christmastime. Every contact of their lives has emphasized, for weeks, the season and all its significance.

To witness such a play as that which now, it appears, is to be revived, may become in many lives the turning point from indifference to awakened knowledge of truth. Its effect upon thousands of lives cannot be guessed. If one life, however, should be made over because of the Christmas play, all the effort, expense and enthusiasm expended would be more than fully repaid.

WHEN, AND IF, SHE CAN

Mexico has replied to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, rejecting his demand for payment for expropriated, American-owned farm lands in the southern republic. Mexico's reply is a flat rejection of every proposal for settlement of the issue made by Secretary Hull.

Eduardo Hay, Mexican minister of foreign relations, makes only one concession in his reply. He accepted the proposal for a commission to determine the value of the lands confiscated and to fix terms for payment, but added that Mexico will pay only "when, and if, she can."

Thus the United States is placed in the position of a would-be collector for debt who is flatly told by the debtor that payment will be made only when the debtor "gets good and ready."

The debt, in this instance, of course, being not for goods sold, but for goods forcibly seized. Which makes a difference in the ethical and moral status of the affair.

Mexico realizes, as does the United States and other nations, that the precedent set in regard to payment for these seized farm lands, will set the stage for the ultimate settlement of the far more valuable oil properties, belonging to various nationalities, which have similarly been expropriated.

Just what the outcome of the issue between this country and Mexico will be is not, at the moment clear. It hardly seems reasonable that this country should use force. The sentiment for peace on the American continents and the emphasis upon the "good neighbor" policy of the present administration would apparently preclude use of the armed forces of the United States, no matter how much provocation might be seen.

Nevertheless something will have to be done, if the United States is not to tell, by inaction in this case, all nations they may steal the property of United States citizens with impunity.

The obvious step is a severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries. Which would make an already difficult problem far more difficult for the Cardenas regime.

TRAINING INDUSTRY

The program, now under way, for training industry in the manufacture of essential wartime equipment cannot be regarded in any other light than that of intelligent preparation for self-defense.

In this era of mechanized armies, more depends, frequently, upon some small instrument, part of the equipment of an essential weapon, than upon the men who use that weapon. During the World War much of the delay experienced in getting large armies into the field was due to the necessity of teaching manufacturers how to make such equipment and of creating the dies and machine tools necessary for its manufacture.

The United States, through the War Department, will give small orders for these mechanical essentials to various manufacturing plants. These firms will thus be able to secure the tools, dies, etc., needed and they will then be stored by the department, ready for instant use if needed. The manufacturers also will gain experience in making the particular item wanted and will be able to so arrange their plants they could go into large-scale production of the item at a moment's notice.

The newest automatic rifles, anti-aircraft guns, range finding instruments, gas masks and other essentials will be included in the first batch of these "training orders" to be placed.

It is nothing but intelligent preparation for possible emergency. Just as the making of a fire extinguisher is only intelligent preparation for a possible fire.

While all Europe stands at Armageddon, let us remember the warning of Washington against entanglements abroad, as well as the words of the immortal Goldwyn, "Include me out."

Editorial of the Day

PORK BARREL LIBERALISM

(From The Chattanooga Times.)

In a campaign speech at near-by Ringgold, Ga., Lawrence S. Camp, United States attorney at Atlanta who is running against Senator Walter F. George with President Roosevelt's indorsement, asked Georgians to send to the senate "a friend of the President, a friend of Secretary Ickes and of Harry Hopkins—a man who knows the department heads of the government and who has their confidence." Having previously told his hearers that "Senator George's prestige in Washington is gone," Mr. Camp is reported to have added:

Big expenditures are to be made and Georgia wants a senator in whom federal government leaders have confidence, for only such a senator can assure the state the receipt of more money than Georgia pays into the federal treasury.

What kind of "liberalism" is that? Does Mr. Camp mean that a "conservative" senator is one who can wrangle out of the federal treasury only as much as, or less than, the amount paid by a state in federal taxes? Is the test of the new "liberalism" in Georgia the ability of a man high placed in administration friendships to dip deeply into public funds?

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEW DEALERS TERRIFIED

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—The New Dealers, not excepting the President, are frankly terrified by the triumphs of the pension movement.

Conservatives' jubilation at the licking of such White House favorites as the epicure Sheridan Downey, in California, and young Congressman William I. MacFarlane, of Texas, has all but obscured the fact that the men who won were much more dangerous. But nothing scares a liberal politician more than another politician who out-libs him, and the New Dealers are completely alive to the danger.

McCadoo and MacFarlane were personally indorsed by the President. Yet the incredible Sheridan Downey, a valuable ex-aid of Dr. Townsend's who now promises $30 every Thursday to every Californian over 50 years of age, beat McCadoo easily. And Culbert L. Olson, who captured the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in California, was a backer of the Downey plan. In Texas, MacFarlane was beaten by Ed Gossett, another pensioner, and there's the strongest testimony that the strength of W. Lee O'Daniel, the celebrated four-star general who won the Texas governorship, was as much in pension promises as in vaudeville.

In Florida, Senator Claude Pepper's appeal to the Townsends was at once cringing and blatant, yet it gave him victory. And in scores of congressional races all over the country, less conspicuous demagogues are trying to hoist themselves onto the public pay roll by making unfulfillable promises to the old people. There can be no doubt that the New Dealers are right in seeing handwriting, and very threatening handwriting, on the wall.

GOOFS AND SCREW-BALLS Just how strong the pensioners will be in the next congress, one can't tell until the November returns are in. Yet it may be presumed that the successes of Pepper and Downey, Gossett, Olson, O'Daniel and the others will have as forcible an effect on the lawmakers as it has had on the New Dealers. And a congressman's impulse when he is frightened is to open the treasury doors and then let the devil take the consequences. Only Providence can forewarn what would ultimately happen if the old people's pensioners and the war veterans' pensioners, who are also beginning to plot a treasury raid, should join their forces.

For the immediate future, of course, there is no likelihood of any drastic pension reforms. The sort of "good neighbor" deal that the Democrats are threatening to the federal credit, smacks too loudly of commercialized Utopia, to be acceptable even to a normal member of the house of representatives. A real horde of goofs and screw-balls has got to be elected before anything really bad can happen. Nothing more drastic than broadening the social security act is to be expected for the present.

DYNAMICS OF DRIVEL In speculating on how far the White House and congress will be willing to go with the social security law, one can't help recalling the great terrors caused by Huey Long and Dr. Townsend. The good gray doctor was directly responsible for the social security law itself. Until his drive began to sell to millions at a dime a drip, the New Deal was not deeply interested in social security. Senator Robert F. Wagner had drafted and offered an excellent bill, but the administration leadership in the senate steadfastly blocked him. Then the doctor came along. The Wagner bill was taken over, rewritten (rather badly), and enacted before you could say Jack Robinson.

GREATEST FRIGHT As for Huey Long, his share-the-wealth movement gave the White House the greatest fright of the last six years. Huey was the first of the promise-moaners, and at the start neither James A. Farley nor Franklin Delano Roosevelt took him very seriously. Indeed, they thought him amusing, and tried to keep him out of the way in the 1932 campaign. Farley got the shock of his life when his checkers reported that in all communities which Long was reluctantly allowed to visit, he had made a tremendous impression. After the break with Huey, Farley's checkers continued to report Long strength, running from three to five million votes. The share-the-wealth or soak-the-rich tax bill was conceived and passed solely to take some of the wind out of Huey's sails.

Thus it is not a bad prediction that the amendments to the social security act will be extremely liberal. It's also likely that the President will continue to offer "good neighbor" deals, although the good neighbor checkers can do people willing to believe nonsense like the Downey plan, only a southern California seer could tell.

Of course, at the hours we drive men wouldn't be at work, anywhere, nor on Sundays. But in so many instances there isn't an indication, even that men have been at work in the vicinity. Can it be they've so many of these boards they can't find storage room and so are scattering them around promiscuously? As a sort of advertising? I wonder.

NEW DEALERS TERRIFIED

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—The New Dealers, not excepting the President, are frankly terrified by the triumphs of the pension movement.

Conservatives' jubilation at the licking of such White House favorites as the epicure Sheridan Downey, in California, and young Congressman William I. MacFarlane, of Texas, has all but obscured the fact that the men who won were much more dangerous. But nothing scares a liberal politician more than another politician who out-libs him, and the New Dealers are completely alive to the danger.

McCadoo and MacFarlane were personally indorsed by the President. Yet the incredible Sheridan Downey, a valuable ex-aid of Dr. Townsend's who now promises $30 every Thursday to every Californian over 50 years of age, beat McCadoo easily. And Culbert L. Olson, who captured the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in California, was a backer of the Downey plan. In Texas, MacFarlane was beaten by Ed Gossett, another pensioner, and there's the strongest testimony that the strength of W. Lee O'Daniel, the celebrated four-star general who won the Texas governorship, was as much in pension promises as in vaudeville.

In Florida, Senator Claude Pepper's appeal to the Townsends was at once cringing and blatant, yet it gave him victory. And in scores of congressional races all over the country, less conspicuous demagogues are trying to hoist themselves onto the public pay roll by making unfulfillable promises to the old people. There can be no doubt that the New Dealers are right in seeing handwriting, and very threatening handwriting, on the wall.

GOOFS AND SCREW-BALLS Just how strong the pensioners will be in the next congress, one can't tell until the November returns are in. Yet it may be presumed that the successes of Pepper and Downey, Gossett, Olson, O'Daniel and the others will have as forcible an effect on the lawmakers as it has had on the New Dealers. And a congressman's impulse when he is frightened is to open the treasury doors and then let the devil take the consequences. Only Providence can forewarn what would ultimately happen if the old people's pensioners and the war veterans' pensioners, who are also beginning to plot a treasury raid, should join their forces.

For the immediate future, of course, there is no likelihood of any drastic pension reforms. The sort of "good neighbor" deal that the Democrats are threatening to the federal credit, smacks too loudly of commercialized Utopia, to be acceptable even to a normal member of the house of representatives. A real horde of goofs and screw-balls has got to be elected before anything really bad can happen. Nothing more drastic than broadening the social security act is to be expected for the present.

DYNAMICS OF DRIVEL In speculating on how far the White House and congress will be willing to go with the social security law, one can't help recalling the great terrors caused by Huey Long and Dr. Townsend. The good gray doctor was directly responsible for the social security law itself. Until his drive began to sell to millions at a dime a drip, the New Deal was not deeply interested in social security. Senator Robert F. Trembles on Brink of War

Today the world trembles on the brink of war, and when all is analyzed, everything boils down to the fact that a man and the clique around him in Nazi Germany have got themselves into a position where they can afford neither to make war nor to make peace. From victory to victory—remilitarization—fortification of the Rhineland—annexation of Austria—Hitler has been marching his way into catastrophe. Nazism started as a "movement" and it remains a movement—that is to say, its nature is that it must move. But the room in which it can now move safely has definitely reached its limits. Hitler must now either retreat or throw Germany and the world into catastrophe.

Let us not be deluded about any of the minor aspects of the issue. The woes of the Sudeten Germans, reimagined, have little to do with it. Hitler is not moving to liberate the Germans in Upper Silesia, or the Polish corridor, and has openly washed his hands of the Germans in the Italian Alte Adige (South Tyrol), whose nationality has been brutally exterminated. And he is celebrating his friendship with Hungary, whose German minority has been thoroughly and programatically Magyarized. The Sudeten German issue is only incidental to the question of whether or not Germany shall dominate the continent, the impotence of Czechoslovakia must be cut loose from her alliances in order to be destroyed, and so far no proposal of a compromise, however generous, is acceptable to Hitler, if it permits Czechoslovakia to survive as anything except a vassal state.

In the Hands

Of One Man

Peace or war is at this moment in the hands of one man. But the question is not whether Hitler wants war, whether his mind is bellicose for peace. The question is whether, first, he is not grotesquely misapprehending the international situation, and second, whether he has not now reached a point from which he cannot retreat if he wants to do so.

Adolf Hitler does not speak or read a single word of a foreign language, and up to his state visit to Mussolini, he was never outside Germany. But he has a definite world picture of his own. His picture includes a belief in the rottenness, weakness and indecision of the democracies, the impotence of Russia, the degeneracy of France, the disinterestedness of England, and the total isolationism of the United States. The most disturbing piece of news in the last few weeks is the report that Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister, leads the so-called war front. Mr. Ribbentrop is the man who gathers all the information which the diplomatic service provides, and it would forebode the worst if his views finally determine Hitler's decision, because he is apparently convinced that no great power will interfere if there is an attack in or against Czechoslovakia.

Overwhelming

Group of Foes

As a matter of fact, Germany is facing on this issue, the most overwhelming coalition of powers against her that the world has ever seen. France will fight to save Czech independence, because otherwise the last chapter of the history of France as a great power will be finished. Britain will fight because it is committed by treaty and vital self-interest to defend France. Russia will fight on both ideological and nationalist grounds. The Little Entente powers have just confirmed—in the meeting in Bled last month—their solidarity against Hungarian expansion, so that if Hungary should attack Germany in an attack on Czechoslovakia she would be submerged by invading armies from three sides. Poland, while very anxious not to stick out her neck until the great powers act, could only, in a war, be on the same side as Britain.

And the United States? Does Germany doubt that the resources of this country, moral and economic, will be at the disposal of the western democracies if they are engaged in a titanic struggle?

Some Germans

Know All This

Now, there are people in Germany, responsible people, in the foreign office, in the arts, and in industry, who know all this. But whether their moderating counsels will prevail with Adolf Hitler is the question on which hangs the world's peace. But is Hitler still free in his decision? For five years the German nation has been organized and geared up to a tension which has reached the breaking point. For months the Sudeten Germans have been told that "The Day" has arrived. The authority of the regime suffered a severe setback in May, when Czechoslovakia mobilized. The economic strain has become almost unbearable. The pessimism of business is reflected in the recent collapse of the Berlin stock market. The craziness of the Nazi system is demonstrated by the construction mania which is tearing down and rebuilding huge areas of German cities, while the people hunger and contemplate a war. And the recent mobilization has at last brought home to the people the danger of the international situation. Every disinterested report from Germany during the last few weeks indicates a state of nervousness among the people.

The stage seems to be set for an explosion. For Hitler has lived for five years exclusively on success and prestige, and the world trembles to know whether he can retreat and still maintain himself and the Nazi state. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

All Animals Must Hustle for a Living, But Only One Starves

In the Midst of Plenty

By ROBERT QUILEN.

Any person whose name appears often in print receives many intimate personal letters from strangers. If his heart is not caloused by long acquaintance with sorrow, he is alternately shamed and sickened and infuriated by the faults of a civilization that brings misery and want to so many innocent people.

What is wrong, that the most intelligent of earth's creatures is least capable of living wisely and successfully? The foolish attribute all misfortunes to a mysterious Providence. "How can a merciful God permit such things?" they moan. They seem to picture God as a combination tutor and guardian who should take each stubborn individual by the nape of the neck and force him to behave wisely and well.

But the divine plan gives every creature freedom, and even the most casual observer can see that mankind alone have used their freedom to their own hurt.

The birds and the beasts, surrounded by the abundance of nature, have worked out a plan of life that brings them food contentment and plenty—except where man's indifferent cruelty or equally fatal good intentions have interfered with the scheme of nature.

Why does man alone, of all God's creatures, live in desperation and discontent and misery? The answer, of course, is man himself. He has not built his environment—his civilization—to make his kind secure and happy, but employed his talents recklessly to create a system that has grown beyond his control. He is the victim of his environment, not its master.

The poor have been with us always. When all work was done by hand there was a job for everybody, but few had plenty. When England's population was only five million, hand workers could not harvest enough wheat to provide bread for all.

Now that machines are made to order for every job, every poor family in America could live on the land, produce every necessity, and enjoy abundance without degrading toil.

That may not be the solution; but some simple and sane solution is possible, and it must be found. The fact that millions never have enough, in a land that produces too much of everything, is an indictment of our civilization that will cause future generations to wonder at our stupidity and inhumanity.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Once more in Glory's van with me!
Virginia cried to Tennessee."

They were two southern states when Virginia cried to Tennessee at Gettysburg, but soon in some estimates, they will be northern. It is Virginia Dabney, of Virginia, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, who comes forward now with question of Virginia's regional place. He reports with seeming approval that "Major Charles J. Calrow, director of the Virginia State Planning Board, does not agree with Odum, and others, that Virginia belongs in the southern classification and is quite willing to recognize the differentials that place her in the border states which he thinks deserve a distinct regionalizing of their own." Commenting in the Montgomery Advertiser, Editor Grover Hall calls his editorial "Virginia Secedes Again."

In Tennessee the secession is being forced, not sought. Forced by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in his division of the United States into four regions for allocation of agricultural research laboratories. He puts Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina into his eastern division, along with New England, New York and Pennsylvania. The Southern division includes South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

We are less concerned for what Secretary Wallace is doing than for what Virginia Dabney concedes. To be a "Virginia Dabney of Virginia" should mean as south-bound as being a "George of Georgia." We blush for the calm and consent with which Editor Dabney receives the sophistries of his state's Mr. Calrow. He hasn't read his Odum as he should. An overwhelming majority of the scientific indices, social and economic, upon which Dr. Odum tests the southernism of different states bind Virginia to this region. Virginia is the south's best foot foremost. The south would not be the south without Virginia, but neither would Virginia be Virginia without the south.

Even though some of the Old Dominion's ablest businessmen may be turning north and east for their business affinities and economic hopes, and even though some of her finest liberals may be looking in the same direction for their rules, Virginia is southern. Southern not merely because of sentiment and history, but because of tobacco, because of the negro, because of the thermometer, because of pine trees and peanuts, because of the southern and seaboard and Atlantic Coast Line railway, because of the Blue Ridge, because of 200,000 farms and a million farmers, because of the geography books, because of blood and tongues and ears and indignation.

What's more, the very things that make Virginia so attractive now to the people above the Potomac, the things that bring her wealth and attention from the north and east, that give her businessmen and liberals the contacts which they are said to have been bewitched—are things Virginia would lose if in any sense—spiritual, intellectual, political, social, economic—she seceded now from the south. Also—horrible dictum—if Virginia secedes, Maryland will take her place.

Of Tennessee and North Carolina it is not necessary to speak. Linking them for agriculture or anything else with Connecticut and New Jersey rather than with South Carolina and Alabama is only another instance of what some of our economic planners are willing to try to do to nature. Or maybe this is just another purge. One word more. We want our friend Virginia Dabney to know that if Virginia secedes from the south we just can't stand it. We'll secede, too.

"What the world's a needing
Ain't written with a pen,
Nor bigger guns to shoot with,
But a bigger type of men."

—E. A. Guest.

No matter who speaks all agree that our greatest need is "bigger and better men." Better husbands, better fathers, better brothers in domestic life—better clerks, cashiers, merchants, bankers, mechanics in the economic world—more trustworthy men in the financial and political world.

There is no overproduction of goodness, honesty, purity, sobriety. The Bible is the best book on goodness. It tells parents how to instill godliness in their children, it portrays the evils of dishonesty, intemperance. It exalts freedom and teaches the free how to safeguard their freedom by co-operating voluntarily with others in every good work. The only man really free is the one who is free of the powers of evil habits and influences. He can choose to serve the least soul in the richest way conceivable.

Our land is free, let's keep it so by exercising ourselves in the highest form of freedom. Listen to Amos R. Wells:

"Free—free—who are the free?
Those, O God, who are true to thee;
True to the goal of a noble man,
True to the need of their fellow man,
True to the call of the inner soul,
True to the good of the mighty whole,
True, O God, to their brothers,
There—these—these are the free."

Second prize of $9,000 went to Ortmann, who beat out Turner for first money at the Pacific international air races at Oakland last May. Ortmann crept in over the edge of the field with a dead motor and landed in a cross-wind.

Third-place money, $4,500, went to Steve Wittman, of Oshkosh, Wis., a former school teacher. Turner, by his victory, became the only man ever to win twice the Thompson trophy race, carrying the world's richest air racing purse. He won the race in 1934 with a Wedell-Williams monoplane.

Leigh Wade, of New York and Buenos Aires, took fourth money, $2,500; Joe Mackey, Findlay, Ohio, flying another one of Turner's ships, fifth for $1,800, and Joe Jacobson, Kansas City, sixth for $1,400.

Turner's average speed for the 300 miles around a quadrangular, 10-mile course was 283.41 miles an hour, as against Detroyats' 264.261.

PINCKNEY D. TODD, EX-MERCHANT, DIES

Former Resident of Macon Will Be Buried There Today.

Pinckney D. Todd, 77, a merchant in Macon, Ga., for many years until his retirement, died early yesterday morning at his home, 2204 Ridgedale road, N. E., after a two weeks' illness. He had been in failing health for many months.

Native of Wilkinson county, Mr. Todd was widely known in the social, civic and business life of Macon before his retirement several years ago. He was a member of the Mulberry Street Methodist church there.

He moved to Atlanta three years ago. Surviving are the wife, the former Miss Annie Mae Choate, sister of Herbert Choate, of Atlanta; a son, Herbert Davis Todd, of Los Angeles, Cal., and three sisters, Mrs. J. A. Bagwell and Miss Ellie Todd, both of Atlanta, and Mrs. H. P. Jackson, of Baltimore, Md. Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning in the chapel of Burghard & Connolly, Macon, by Dr. George Stoves. Burial will be in the Riverside cemetery there under direction of Brandon-Bond-Connolly.

Jane Partridge Borders, of LaGrange; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Borders Sr., of LaGrange; two brothers, C. P. Borders Jr., of LaGrange, and J. A. Borders, of Buffalo, N. Y., and a sister, Miss Martha Borders.

5-Day Rites Are Decreed For Cardinal

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Bells in the twin spires of St. Patrick's cathedral tolled and flags hung at half-mast over New York city today as the body of Patrick Cardinal Hayes was returned for the final rites of the church he had served so long.

Five days of high funeral services culminating in a solemn pontifical mass of requiem on Friday were decreed by church dignitaries for "the Cardinal of Charity" who died peacefully in his sleep Sunday at his up-state summer home at St. Josephs.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered in the holiday-quiet street outside the Cardinal's house here and at the near-by cathedral from which for 19 years Cardinal Hayes directed the spiritual life of more than 1,000,000 Catholics in the world's richest Roman Catholic diocese.

A special police escort accompanied the cortege from St. Josephs to New York. Monsignor Michael Lavelle, pastor of St. Patrick's and vicar general of the archdiocese, the Most Rev. Stephen Donahue, auxiliary bishop of New York; Monsignor John J. Casey, the Cardinal's secretary, who discovered his superior's death when he went to awaken him, and the diocesan consultants were in the party which brought the cardinal home.

The simple mahogany coffin was borne into the cathedral by six pallbearers flanked by the church dignitaries who accompanied the body from St. Josephs.

A double line of patrolmen, stretching from the curb to the entry, snapped to attention and held a salute while the robed procession filed inside.

GROUP TO MAP WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Atlanta Body's Directors To Meet Thursday.

Directors of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association will hold their first fall meeting at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the association's headquarters, 286 Forrest avenue, N. E., according to announcement by Charles E. Shepard, president.

The association, which serves Fulton and DeKalb counties, conducts a year-round educational, medical and nursing program, financed largely by receipts from Christmas seals. Mr. Shepard urged all members of the board to attend the meeting, when a review of summer work and an outline of new fall activities will be made.

Officers, in addition to Mr. Shepard, include Miss Marion Woodward, first vice president; J. L. Edwards, second vice president; Dr. Elizabeth Broach, third vice president; Lewis D. Sharp, treasurer; Miss Mary Dickinson, executive secretary; Dr. T. I. Willingham, chairman of the medical staff, and Forrester B. Washington, president of the negro branch.

F. S. DEAN SERVICES TO BE HELD TODAY

Prominent Atlantan Will Be Buried at West View Cemetery.

Funeral services for Frank Starke Dean, 68, retired vice president of the Atlanta Flow Company and prominent Atlantan who died Sunday morning at his summer home in Highlands, N. C., will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill by the Rev. Theodore S. Will. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A native of Rome, Ga., Mr. Dean came to Atlanta when he was 18 years old and since that time has been identified with the social, civic and business life of the city. He was a past president of the Druid Hills Country Club and was a member of the All Saints Episcopal church.

Pallbearers will be Charles A. Ewing, Dr. Carter Smith, Edgar Dunlap, James Dunlap, James G. Ison, Granger Russell, Goodloe Yancey and Samuel H. Johnson.

An honorary escort will be formed by S. R. Broadnax, Walter Candler, F. E. Willis, Robert McCord, Charles E. Sciple, Mell R. Wilkerson, Fred A. Hoyt, A. A. Acklin, Ernest Woodruff, George Woodruff, R. W. Woodruff, J. H. Ewing, Dr. J. B. Pierson, H. Lane Young, Lee Ashcraft, Elfred Papy, Dameron C. Black, William Brownlee, Dr. John S. Hurt, Emory Hines, Russell Porter, John C. Wheatley, Thomas K. Glenn, Alfred C. Newell, James P. Allen, Ivan Allen, Robert L. Foreman, Dr. James H. Crawford, Eugene Gunby, John Sanford and George A. Bland.

BROOKE TRIAL SET FOR THIS MORNING

Army Officer Loses Fight To Suppress Evidence.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 5.—(AP) A motion by defense counsel for Major John Rutter Brooke Jr., infantry instructor at Fort Benning, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Gerhart Brooke, to suppress certain evidence it contends was obtained illegally, was overruled by Judge Bascom S. Deaver in United States district court here today.

The major's case will be called for trial tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, and indications are it will be in progress a week to 10 days. The government has summoned 90 witnesses and the defense likewise has called a battery of them. Major Brooke has been in the Muscogee county jail here since June 11, two days after the battered body of his wife, a former army nurse, was found at the foot of the stairway of their quarters at Fort Benning.

their posts. Holidays and leaves were cancelled abruptly. More than 15,000 furloughed officers and men were recalled, special classes of reserves were called up for three weeks' duty, frontier posts in advance of the Maginot line were increased to double strength and gaps in garrison strength were hastily plugged. The entire peacetime strength of the French army, together with about 35,000 army men of the gendarmerie force, was brought to top efficiency with more than 500,000 men alert and ready for an emergency.

The number of special reserves called was not revealed. Each of these reserves is highly trained in the operation of the complicated underground apparatus of the Maginot fortifications, the sunken forts and gunnery nests and the turrets that look like battleships plunged into the earth.

Daladier appealed to the French people to remain calm.

"It is a question of measures of unavoidable precautions. This should not cause uneasiness of public opinion and calm, which is the essential element for the maintenance of peace. In any case, according to the latest information, the general situation appears to be evolving toward an appreciable relaxation of tension."

Charges of Power Affiliations Hurlled by Senatorial Candidates

Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, State Democratic National Committeewoman, To Take Stump in Behalf of District Attorney Lawrence Camp.

Charges of power company affiliations flew thick and fast in the senatorial battle yesterday as Senator George, speaking at Trion, "mentioned" an alleged representation of the Georgia Power Company by his New Deal opponent, District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, while Camp and Ex-Governor Talmadge hurled anew the charge that George "looked after the power interests" on the floor of the senate.

Meanwhile, it was announced that the state's Democratic national committeewoman, Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, would take the stump in behalf of Camp. Mrs. Price will speak tonight at Waycross.

Senator George also spoke at Cartersville, while Camp spoke at Waycross.

George said, "I am not making the charge, and added he would not mention it except for the fact that 'you may have heard it said that I have not been friendly to the people and have represented the power organizations.'"

The veteran lawmaker reiterated that he had never represented any power organization as an individual or lawyer, and added, "I have been fair to them, just as I have been fair to other business and intend to be fair to them just as long as they conduct an honest business."

He was introduced by Ed Maddox, of Rome, former chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Association by President Roosevelt that he placed liberalism above party affiliation and would not object to election of liberal Republicans, drew criticism from Senator George in his Cartersville speech.

"I am not the kind of a Democrat to support a liberal Republican against one of my own party," he declared.

George's main speech for today is scheduled for 11:30 this morning at Gainesville. He will speak at Royston this afternoon. Camp will speak at Montezuma and Rochelle while Talmadge will appear at Blakely.

Meanwhile at Warm Springs Candidate Camp renewed his charge that in 1928 Senator George blocked a resolution for a senate investigation into the power interests.

He also cited alleged contributions to George's campaign funds by persons affiliated with the power company.

George Assailed. Camp also declared Georgia laboring men "were not in the frame of mind to accept promises from representatives of the group that brought about the depression in this country."

He described Senator George as being in this group and said they "thought in terms of property rights instead of in terms of human rights."

Camp spoke to a rally crowd gathered near President Roosevelt's "other home" at the Warm Springs Foundation, where Camp first heard the President name him as the New Deal's champion in the Georgia election.

He said George's record "shows that he does not have it in his heart to serve the interests and welfare of the laboring man."

Climaxing Macon's observance of Labor Day, Talmadge declared that "the greatest enemy of American labor is the importation of foreign goods." He asserted unequal freight rates between north and south and "low tariff walls" were enemies of southern labor and farming, and that the freight rate differential has "contributed more toward impoverishing the south than anything else."

Talmadge said when George was on the state supreme court he

LE HARDY RITES FINAL RITES TODAY

Funeral services for Major Julius C. Le Hardy, 67, of 511 South Candler street, Decatur, retired army surgeon, who was found shot dead Saturday night in a beach cabin near Port St. Joe, Fla., will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill by Chaplain John T. Axton. Burial will be in the Marietta National cemetery.

Major Le Hardy, who had practiced in both Atlanta and Decatur for several years since his retirement from army service, had gone to Florida to visit relatives and to recuperate from an illness. Sheriff Byrd Parker, of Port St. Joe, said he recorded the death as a suicide.

has an American ambassador attended a Nazi party congress here, although last year the United States was represented by its charge d'affaires.

The papal nuncio and the Soviet ambassador are the only major foreign representatives in Berlin who declined to attend the congress.

Funeral services for Mrs. Claude M. Erwin, 61, wife of a pioneer Atlanta nurseryman, who died early Sunday night of a heart attack, will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Peachtree chapel, by the Rev. W. T. Hunnicutt. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A native of Rome, Ga., she was the former Miss Martha P. White. She had been a resident of Atlanta for 35 years, residing most of the time at 1110 Boulder Crest drive, S. E. Her husband is owner of the Boulder Crest nursery.

BEHOLD

WALTER SAINT GEORGE THE GEORGE

AND it came to pass that they had an election in the land of the Georgeyites.

And, Lo, the tillers of the soil, the husbandmen, the herdsmen, the drovers, the hewers of wood and the drawers of water gathered together and saith one to another, saith they—what must we do, men?

Wherefore a gray-bearded prophet arose and saith unto them: They have reared a mighty idol before them and they calleth him Walter Saint George, the George.

Yea, verily, they telleth us of the might and the power and the glory and the strength of Walter Saint George, the George.

Behold, they saith unto us how ye down before this idol and worship him and thou shalt eat of the flesh-pots, thou shalt live on milk and honey and shalt dwell in a land of plenty.

Forsooth they cry aloud from the housetops that Walter Saint George, the George, is great in the land. They claimeth that Walter Saint George, the George, is greater, yea verily, than the Chief of the Democratic party and yea Walter Saint George, the George, admitteth it himself.

Whereupon another gray bearded prophet arose and saith—what's Walter Saint George, the George, ever done that we should bow down and worship him?

And, Behold, the first grey-bearded prophet replieth.

He introduceth resolutions. Yea, verily, when his people are sore distressed he introduceth a resolution. When there is poverty among his people, when the floods cometh, when the prices of cotton droppeth, when the price of tobacco falleth under the bottom of the sea Walter Saint George, the George, introduceth a resolution.

Yea, verily, when the caravans raiseth the rates on the melons and the pomegranates, the frankincense and myrrh, the peanuts, the corn and the cattle, 'tis then my brethren Walter Saint George, the George, introduceth a resolution.

BEHOLD, in all the 16 years he hath worn his white tie and black coat and stuffed shirt amongst the Pharisees in the temple, he hath never adopted any other course to succor thee.

And, Behold, a husbandman ariseth and saith—whatever becometh of the resolutions?

Wherefore the prophet saith—brother, thou spaketh a mouthful. What hath ever become of any of the resolutions anyway?

And there was a loud clamor among the tillers of the soil, the husbandmen, the herdsmen the hewers of wood and the drawers of water.

What's Walter Saint George, the George, been doin' up there anyway crieth they.

Wherefore the prophet saith—I'll tell ye, men, I'll tell ye.

For 16 years Walter Saint George, the George, hath conspired against ye and has lined himself up with the Powerites, the Gasties, the Telephonites, the Moving Pictures and the Railroadites.

Yea, verily, when these Powerites and other "ites" telleth Walter Saint George, the George, to jump through the hoop believe me men, Walter Saint George, the George, jumpeth through the hoop.

For, Behold, have ye not seen the scribes of our land, tearing their shirts for Walter Saint George, the George? And do not the shekels flow in a golden stream, yea a stream that reacheth every militia district of our fair land? And do not the trumpets blare and the cymbals clash day and night in ballyhoo for Walter Saint George, the George? And art not the bills being paid by the Powerites, the Gasties, the Telephonites, the Moving Pictures and the Railroadites?

Forsooth, is not that proof enough for thee?

WHEREFORE the husbandmen, the tillers of the soil, the herdsmen, the hewers of wood and the drawers of water rent their garments. And behold, they wept and gnashed their teeth and put on sack-cloth and ashes.

And, Lo, they crieth aloud in their lamentations—O prophet tell us why we have never learned this before?

When, Behold, the prophet replieth—because when ye asked for succor they played ye for suckers.

Who played us for suckers when we begged for succor asketh the husbandmen.

The Powerites, ye farmers, the Powerites and the other "ites." And, Lo, they are playing ye for suckers right now when thou needest succor.

For, Behold, look at the scribes, are they not all for Walter Saint George, the George?

Hark ye, are not all the whitties, the frock-tailed coats and the stuffed shirts for Walter Saint George, the George?

And, Lo, art not the plutocrats the big bankers, the loud-mouthed whoopee artists, yea, verily, art not Fred Wilson-Wilson, Arthur Lucas-Pookos and Preston, Duke of Arkwright, themselves paying the bills for Walter Saint George, the George?

Get ye wise, men, get ye wise.

And it came to pass that the husbandmen, the tillers of the soil, the herdsmen, the hewers of wood and the drawers of water became wroth and sweareth in mighty voices they'll not be played for suckers again.

What shall we do? asketh they in great clamor.

Do? Why do thou just as the Chief of the Democratic party saith he would do. Get thee all in line behind that clean-cut, alert, patriotic and loyal candidate Lawrence S. Camp, and elect him.

AND behold then thou wilt have a chance really to get some milk and honey and enjoy some of the fleshpots which hath been promised thee for 16 years by Walter Saint George, the George.

Yea, verily, and thou shalt send Walter Saint George, the George, back to Fred Wilson-Wilson, Arthur Lucas-Pookos and Preston, Duke of Arkwright, that he may spend the rest of his days jumping through the hoop when they commandeth—but not in the United States Senate as Representative of the People of Georgia!—(Adv.)

And then thou shalt send Walter Saint George, the George, back to Fred Wilson-Wilson, Arthur Lucas-Pookos and Preston, Duke of Arkwright, that he may spend the rest of his days jumping through the hoop when they commandeth—but not in the United States Senate as Representative of the People of Georgia!—(Adv.)

HOWELL CAMPAIGN TERMED HOPELESS BY FORMER AIDE

Ex-Secretary to State Democratic Committee Hits at Motives.

Terming Hugh Howell's gubernatorial candidacy "boyish panaceas, bred solely for the purpose of catching votes," Mrs. Eleanor Orr Roan, of Palmetto, declared in a speech last night that she "doubts sincerely of his motives" and announced her support of Governor Rivers.

Speaking on the Governor's regular Monday night program at a downtown hotel, Mrs. Roan, who served as secretary to the state Democratic executive committee during Howell's regime as chairman, called the Howell campaign "hopeless."

Mrs. Roan preceded Governor Rivers in his regular speech for Atlanta. She did not mention Howell by name and save for a brief reference quoted, said little of his candidacy. She devoted the major portion of her address to an endorsement of the Rivers program which she called "our program."

The former committee secretary said she did not support nor vote for Rivers in 1936, but she predicted his overwhelming re-election this year.

Advocate Program.
"The opposition which seeks to defeat Governor Rivers does not criticize his program," Mrs. Roan said. "They sought to block its materialization, but now they advocate it in its entirety."

The Palmetto woman pointed to the benefits paid by the Rivers administration to old people, the schools, the health department and especially lauded efforts to improve conditions in the eleemosynary institutions.

The Governor and Mrs. Roan spoke on a program presided over by Judge Clement E. Sutton, retiring member of the house of representatives from Wilkes county. Other speakers included the Rev. Joe Branch, of Davisboro; Albert S. Hardy, editor of the Gainesville News; Dennis Still, superintendent of schools at Buena Vista; Fred K. Stephens, of Augusta; Morris Abrams, of Fitzgerald, and Mayor Thomas Luck, of Carrollton.

The broadened scope of public service rendered by his administration has become so effective that "even the little children seem to know that a different spirit is abroad in Georgia," Governor Rivers declared in his speech.

The chief executive asserted he believed that a vast majority of Georgians are trying to make politics a means of public service rather than "a sordid game in which those who use the shadiest tactics survive."

"These boys and girls seem to sense that we are trying to make the government a far flung agency for the commonwealth," Governor Rivers said. "They are showing their interest in government because public service is being emphasized."

Speaks at Franklin.
The chief executive's speech climaxed a day, of warm campaigning in the gubernatorial race, the address here being his second of the day. He spoke yesterday morning at Franklin.

Meanwhile, two of the three opponents kept busy with their speeches each, while the fourth candidate, Robert F. Wood, of Athens, continued his barnstorming tour over south Georgia.

In addition, Candidate Hugh Howell, Atlanta lawyer, issued a statement attacking a tax report made public last week by the Governor's campaign headquarters.

John J. Mangham, Bremen banker and businessman, spoke in northeast Georgia, his main address of the day at Royston. He referred to the Governor's Monday night meeting as "family circle gatherings" and charged that the attendance was chiefly of state employees.

Hits "Pardon Racket."
At Franklin, Governor Rivers pointed out that his administration has "sought to put an end to the nefarious pardon racket, and abolish politics in the highway department."

"We are not going to return to the day when our prison system was the shame of the state and our highway department was the playhouse of men with greedy appetites for power and plunder," Rivers said.

"We are teaching this little group that the state government belongs to the people and while they may yearn for a return to the day when public property could be misused for personal gain, their yearnings are in vain."

Rivers said "the people of Georgia have got what they wanted in the last two years. . . . We are not going to let these benefits be taken away from us."

"Handwriting on Wall."
At Royston, Mangham said Rivers "saw the handwriting on the wall" at his "family feast" last week.

"When the boys from the various counties got through telling him just how badly he was going to be defeated he came near collapsing. They are leaving him like rats leaving a burning ship," Mangham said.

Mangham said he would get rid of "useless employees" and pay old-age pensions with the money thus saved.

LOUISIANAN HEADS Y. M. C. A. AT TECH

Walter McGee Jr. Succeeds James W. May.

Walter H. McGee Jr., of Louisiana State University, has been elected general secretary of the Georgia Tech Y. M. C. A. for the coming year, it was announced yesterday. He succeeds James W. May, general secretary for the past three years, who has resigned to do graduate work at Union Theological Seminary in New York city.

A native of Monroe, La., McGee graduated from L. S. U. in 1936 after serving as student president of the Y. M. C. A. Last year he was assistant to the Y. M. C. A. secretary at L. S. U. He has studied in the Y. M. C. A. Graduate school at Blue Ridge, N. C. He is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, of the L. S. U. senior honor society, and of Sigma Chi fraternity.

COMMITTEE SOUGHT ON BUILDING PLANS

Council Will Be Asked To Name Body To Confer With County Heads.

Appointment of a three-man committee to co-operate with county officials in pushing the proposed $15,000,000 public improvement program will be sought in city council this afternoon by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam.

Council members will be asked to create the committee to confer with the county commissioners following their session Wednesday, when action on the financial problems of the county is expected to be taken.

A resolution recommended by the finance committee calling upon the county to agree to share half the cost of hospitalization and all the expense of relief before city officials will consider the proposed program also will be before council.

The program calls upon the city to issue $3,500,000 in bonds and for the county to float a $1,700,000 bond issue to finance the local government's part of the $13,000,000 worth of projects to be accomplished with federal aid.

Two vetoes by Mayor Harshfield face fights in council. Efforts will be made to "find" $22,500 to match WPA aid for street work, and $40,000 for construction of a "mud line" for the water works department.

A resolution to revive the old-time custom of an annual Christmas play depicting the scenes of the Bible will be introduced jointly by all the members of council.

PLANES AND FIREFIGHTERS.
ARCHANGELSK, U. S. S. R.—Sept. 5.—(AP)—Flying fire departments which rush fire fighters to the scene of a forest blaze by plane and drop them by parachutes are being used near here.

EXTENSION SCHOOL ENROLLMENT GAINS

University System's Miscellaneous Income Also Rises.

The division of general extension of the University System of Georgia enrolled 3,637 students for 7,639 courses during the school year ending June 30, as compared to 1,409 students enrolled in 2,258 courses the year before, according to a report released by State Auditor Zach Arnold.

In sales, fees and miscellaneous income, the division obtained $106,745.31, and received $4,316 from the board of regents. Last year, its income was $49,444.87, and the regents contributed $2,000. Expenses for the year ending last June 30 came to $83,166.61, while those of 1937 totaled $51,812.83.

Atlanta Boy Meets Film Notables in Motion Picture Capital

Peggy and Pat Stewart Introduce Ward Simms to Film Celebrities

By Sally Forth.

ATLANTA friends of Ward Simms eagerly await his return from California to hear of some of his experiences while sojourning in Hollywood, where he played around with many film notables. A lot of Ward's good times are credited to Peggy and Pat Stewart, who introduced the Atlanta boy to a score of their friends. Peggy, as you know, is making good as a motion picture actress and Pat and her mother, Mrs. John Stewart, are spending several months with her.

The picturesque lake adjoining the Lakeside Golf Club has provided the setting for many parties enjoyed by Ward and the Stewart sisters. Ward writes that frequently they are accompanied by film celebrities for a dip in the Pacific's cool blue waters. Ward has also enjoyed many swims at the swanky Del Mar Club in Santa Monica, where he visited his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Black.

Ward and Pat danced at the Palomar to hitting strains played by Glen Gray and his famous orchestra. Another high light of Ward's stay in Hollywood was his visit to Grauman's Chinese theater, where he saw an initial showing of "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Roller bowl, the world's largest skating rink, occupied one evening of Ward's stay in Hollywood. Visits to the renowned Coconut Grove and to Catalina Island are other high lights marking that Atlanta's stay in California.

En route west, Ward stopped for a view of the Grand Canyon in Arizona. He will stop at Topeka on his homeward journey for a visit to relatives. Sally is informed that a group of popular Atlanta belles and beaux will be at the railroad station on September 10 to welcome Ward home.

WHEN lovely little Clare Boisfeuillet Pittman, the four-month-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Lee Pittman, was christened on Sunday at All Saints Episcopal church, the Rev. Theodore Willis read the service from an exquisite white leather prayer book and hymnal, the gift of the baby's maternal grandfather, Fritz Jones. The book, with the baby's initials lettered in gold, will be an important reminder of the christening and will doubtless be used by little Clare on other important occasions in her life.

The baby bears the name of her maternal grandmother, the former Clare Boisfeuillet, of Macon, member of one of Georgia's most prominent families, and also the name of her charming young mother. She is the paternal granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. James Lee Pittman, well-known residents of Fitzgerald.

Little Clare wore for her christening an exquisite imported frock of batiste and real lace and made a most adorable picture. Attending her as godmothers were Mrs. Henry Poer and Mrs. Robin Brookshire, of Royston, Mrs. Poer, the former Peggy Underwood, and Mrs. Brookshire, the former Ida Nevin, are two of Mrs. Pittman's closest friends, the trio having been inseparable from early girlhood.

Acting as godfather was Dr. Edward Wright, whose warm friendship with Dr. Pittman dates back to their early college days. After graduation the two shared an apartment for some years and each served as the other's best man in his wedding.

The baby has two uncles, Boisfeuillet and Albert Jones, and she is the first grandchild on either side of the family, so it's needless to say that she's always the center of attraction in family groups.

THREE young boys rushed through dinner, and went to call on some young ladies... at least that's what their families thought! A few hours later the wires between two homes were "burning up." Two mothers were practically hysterical, and two fathers were grave and angry. One of the "three comrades" had "borrowed" his grandfather's new car, and was at that moment merrily chauffeuring his friends to Lakemont!

The parents of the boys would not have been so upset had it not been for the fact that it was the driver's first experience behind the wheel. But so certain were they that their sons were in danger, that the two fathers and an

"Shake Off Your Snackles and Get Out With Own Age"—Chatfield

So You Have to Lose Ten Of Those Pounds, Eh?

By Ida Jean Kain.

It took a woman's page editor to wake me up to the necessity for a diet that will enable some of you to lose a definite number of pounds in a certain number of days. A Detroit newspaper woman has just reduced 10 pounds—but not on my diet!

From time to time Miss Hawkins has been kind enough to tell me about this reducer or that losing from 50 to 80 pounds, just like that! But when she made up her mind to lose 10 pounds she went on one of these so many day diets because, as she explained forthrightly, "I had to have something definite." Which set me back on my heels for a minute.

Just so nothing like that will ever happen again I am putting out a "Twenty-One Day Diet" by which you can lose 10 pounds, and you can look and feel better for it, too. That is, you can if you really follow the diet and do the exercises!

The diet is not hard to follow. You needn't worry that you are going on a lamb chop and a sprig of parsley for the next three weeks. You will find the menus as varied as your normal bill of fare, with plenty of food of the kind that sticks to your ribs, and with all the necessary proteins, minerals and vitamins included. On top of all this the menus have been juggled to give you every last calorie you can have and lose the stipulated poundage on schedule.

You could, of course, lose faster, but I don't want to take any chances with your health. But if you do your part, follow the menus exactly and take a small amount of exercise, you will be elated with the results.

Wishing won't take off weight. Earnest diet and exercise will. For one thing, during the 21 days you should be able to take two inches off the hips and one and one-half inches off the waist.

This you can do with the aid of specific exercise. We don't know that you burn the calories off the hips and waistline with exercises for these measurements, but what has been proven—and scientific!

ly—is that when the calorie intake is reduced below the amount required for energy the stored fat is then converted into energy. And with exercise backing your diet you do wear the fat off certain spots.

The special menus begin today and will run for three weeks—follow them and you will be 10 pounds slimmer. This "Twenty-One Day Diet" will also be available in leaflet form.

Cross Stitch Design For Either Silk or Wool

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Lively Motifs Easy to Do in 4 to the Inch Crosses

PATTERN 6195

"The bigger—the better" holds for this cross-stitch—it's four to the inch. You can imagine how quickly this gets done particularly since you use a heavy floss or wool. You can make a lovely pillow with matching scarf for living room or library. The speed of the work will fascinate you. Pattern 6195 contains a transfer pattern of seven motifs ranging from 3 1/2x6 inches to 9 3/4x13 inches; color schemes; illustrations of stitches; materials needed.

For You and Daughter—Barbara Bell

Here's an extremely smart example of the popular mother-and-daughter type of frock. It's young enough for you, and old enough for her.

This model is just the kind of short-sleeved wool dress that your daughter will want for school and you will want for shopping, on cool days of fall, and to wear all winter under heavy coats. It has beautifully sleek, youthful lines; the waist is tiny and the sleeves puff high, just as they should. A scalloped, two-buttoned closing keeps the plain neckline from looking too severe. Wool crepe, fine flannel, jersey and velveteen are suitable materials. Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1599-B is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 5 1/4 yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves. Girl's dress, designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/4 yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Disregard Cries Of Selfish Mother

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: We are twin sisters well along in the twenties and our life consists of going to the office to work and going home to sit with our mother. She is not strong, can't get about and because she was an old-fashioned mother who devoted her life to her home and family she has no friends of her age. Consequently unless we spend our leisure time with her she is absolutely lonely and miserable. Both of us had dreams of a different sort of life but we are no nearer realization of those dreams than we were at 15. We haven't time or opportunity to cultivate the few friends we have and we see no way out. Can't you make a few suggestions that might give us a fresh point of view. TWINS.

Answer: Girls you have to do it for yourselves; nobody can help you beyond telling you that you will die as you have lived—disappointed—unless you shake off the shackles and get out with those of your own age, cultivate the few friends you have and make new ones. Even if your mother kicks and screams, or curls up and pouts or cries and declares that nobody loves her and all her sacrifices have been for naught, you should get out.

If you need the argument to bolster you here it is: She had youth, love, marriage, motherhood, all its joys and sorrows. She lived the life of a home with her family gathered around her. She has for years and years known the happiness of having her daughters come home to nurse her, amuse her and make the hours pass quickly. Then she should not stand in the way of their grasping the quickly passing opportunity to have some of the good things of life in their own right.

This common crime that so many mothers commit against their girl children is one of the hardest to understand and one of the most difficult to deal with. Every time I receive a letter from a daughter who is being smothered by mother love my heart aches for both of them and I hesitate to answer; for there's nothing to be said on either side that doesn't give offense and there is no solution of the problem that doesn't deal a death blow to mother or daughter.

Tell the girl to harden her heart to her mother and go out to make a life for herself and it sounds like jungle philosophy. Tell her to give up, devote her life to unselfish sacrifice to her parent and face an old age in which she has neither parent nor friends to fall back on and it sounds like idiotic sentimentality. Tell her to split the difference and there's the mother who don't let her split it; or the daughter who hasn't the courage to split it.

There is a fine line that divides useless sacrifice of youth for age and a common sense plan of life that provides for both youth and age. But who can find it? Not the woman who has lived half her life and has made no preparation for age beyond rearing her children and waiting for them to come home. And it's almost as hard for those children to find it since their picture of their mother is face pressed against the window watching for their return.

Yet the children must find the happy medium or die as they have lived, disappointed, defeated, frustrated.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Nothing Lost In Pseudo Squeeze

By Harold Sharpsteen.

With contract safely in hand, there can be no harm done if declarer leads out his good trumps and established winners before conceding his losers. Opponents occasionally relax and throw away wrong cards, presenting declarer with an extra trick or so.

With a contract apparently defeated and making the essential for a true squeeze nothing can be lost by attempting a false or pseudo squeeze. The idea is to make opponents believe they are being squeezed when declarer, as a matter of fact, is really only hoping they will guess wrong and throw away a winner or guard a protected winner.

CONCEDE NOTHING. So the next time you must concede losers to opponents, concede nothing until you have played out all of your winning cards. Left to guess, it is a 50-50 chance opponents will discard wrong.

Magnetic Robert Morley Had a Date for Bridge

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5.—One afternoon last June the secretary of a top executive at M-G-M was surreptitiously calling leading members of the cast of "Marie Antoinette" and telling them, in strict confidence, of course, that a sneak preview of the picture was to be held that night in a certain theater in Balboa, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Everyone was pretty much excited. It was the first opportunity of the cast and working crew to get a look at an extravagant spectacle on which they had been working for eight months. Previous engagements were cancelled. The select few invited to the "sneak" prepared to be on hand early.

There was a single exception, however. When Louis B. Mayer's secretary got Robert Morley—now being hailed by fandom as the most magnetic character actor uncovered since Charles Laughton—on a telephone, the actor politely declined.

"You see, I am playing bridge with some of my friends tonight," said Morley. "I couldn't possibly go along."

It didn't matter to Morley that he had never seen himself on the screen, for this was his first appearance. It didn't matter that the Hollywood grapevine had scattered reports that he had stolen the show. It didn't matter that he was returning to England the following week and wouldn't get a chance to see the production (even if he so desired) for several months. He had a date to play bridge!

That attitude is typical of the man who has figured so prominently in fandom's curiosity since the release of "Marie Antoinette." He is interested in delivering a good performance, but when the job's done he can't see any reason to revive excitement over it. He thinks that is anti-climatic. He doesn't believe in replaying bridge hands either.

Anticipating a tidal wave of interest in Morley, who plays the boorish Dauphin, King Louis XVI, of France (a part secondary only to that of Norma Shearer's title role), let us set down a few facts and general characteristics about the man—who, by the way, is now being hailed by the standard studio biography. He was extremely timid. "Do you really want all this?" he kept repeating. "You know I don't have a contract here."

It is difficult to diagnose the off-screen personality of Morley. His appearance is deceptive. He seems neither young, nor old, but beneath the winsome, lives a remarkable talent for acting—panoramic in particular—a pungent mind and keen sense of humor. Not since Laughton thundered into the film fans' consciousness in "New" has such a fellow turned up in our shadow-shopping lives. Make Victorian Pieces Fit Into Furniture Picture

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

"I ought to be thrilled to death," writes Anita T., "because I have some really nice old furniture—mostly Victorian, but graceful. But I'm stupid. I sit and look at it by the minute and wish I had some bright ideas. The furniture is rosewood and walnut with fruit and flower carving. Then there are two of those cute little upholstered chairs—like the one in my bungalow—quite usual—the age five-room layout with rooms that are none too large, yet it's a pleasant place to live—very light and sunny. Yo-Ho-Ho and A Bottle of Iodine

By Dr. William Brady.

At long last I have come to realize that I have lost the battle waged for years to drop the battle from iodine. I find the U.S.P. the British P. Webster, Dorland and everybody are combined against me. So, as gracefully as possible, I am too gracefully giving up the battle. It shall be iodine from now on. But it was fun while it lasted. I still hold out for the long I in vitamin and no final e, and in this I am happy to learn. I now have the support of Webster who, only a few years ago, hardly mentioned vitamin at all, and then only with a short I.

The ounce vial of Mild Tincture of Iodine (U.S.P. or B.P.) in the family medicine cupboard is the weaker tincture, 2.5 per cent iodine, intended for popular use as a first-aid disinfectant for wounds. No great harm would be done if the older Strong Tincture of Iodine (7.5 per cent iodine) were used for the purpose, but the Mild Tincture is efficient and whatever I may say here or elsewhere about tincture of iodine always refers to this milder tincture. The strong tincture should be left exclusively to physicians' use.

Druggists generally dispense tincture of iodine in a special vial fitted with a glass or composition rod attached to the cap or cork or stopper. This is convenient for dropping a drop or two of the liquid upon the cut or abrasion—and it should be dropped on the surface without actually touching the surface with the rod.

If no such applicator comes with the vial, do not use a brush or other swab unless you intend to discard it after the single use. Better twist a wisp of absorbent cotton on a clean toothpick, and dip it in the iodine to paint or swab the wound or abrasion and then discard the swab.

A single application of iodine or a single coat of it on the skin will rarely cause more than momentary smarting. It is rather repeated applications that sometimes burn or blister. The momentary bite of a drop of iodine upon a canker sore in the mouth, for instance, seems to be followed by prolonged relief of the soreness attending canker. Daily application of Mild Tincture of Iodine and Glycerine, half and half, is the most satisfactory treatment for canker sores in the mouth—usually they clear up in two or three days.

So-called "colorless" iodine is not iodine at all, but a relatively inert solution of iodides, of little or no value as an antiseptic or disinfectant, though perhaps suitable for internal use where the effect of iodine is desired. One long standing tincture of iodine may become stronger instead of weaker, because the alcohol evaporates faster than the iodine does. (Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution.)

On the other hand, tincture of iodine may become stronger instead of weaker, because the alcohol evaporates faster than the iodine does.

Mary Ellen Webb Feted on Birthday.

Mary Ellen Webb was honored recently at the party given by her mother, Mrs. D. M. Webb in celebration of her seventh birthday anniversary.

Mrs. I. M. Jenkins, Mrs. I. D. Sims and Miss Louise Spurlin assisted in entertaining the guests who were Dolores Moorefield, Ann Spurlin, Vera Baldwin, Barbara Whitaker, Geneane Bennett, Ann Hardeman, Marylyn Anderson, Jackie Jenkins, Jimmie Jenkins, Betty Lou Edwards, Patsy Wooten, Jacqueline Malcolm, Jo Earnest, Lindy Ann Taylor, Doris Sheffield, June White, Betty Gene Ward, Mary Elizabeth Williams, Warren Harper, Jimmie Gunnin, Enita Sims, Beth and Billy Orr.

For Miss Whitney.

Miss Gertrude A. Whitney, bride-elect, was honor guest at a dinner party and handkerchief shower given by Misses Eleanor McGuire and Lois Bruce at the home of the latter recently.

The house was decorated with garden flowers. In the dining room the color scheme of pink and green was carried out. The table was overlaid with a hand-made lace cloth and the center piece was a miniature bridal scene. The main attraction was the hand-painted place-cards featuring a small train carrying as crew and passenger a likeness of each guest. The gifts were presented the honoree in a small traveling bag.

The guests included a group of the bride-elect's close friends.

MY DAY Mrs. Roosevelt Discusses Two of Latest Books

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I want to begin today by telling you about a book which I think will interest you if you know the countryside along the Hudson river, particularly the part of it just above Poughkeepsie. The book is called "Crum Elbow Folks," by P. R. Barnes. My mother-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt, wrote a rather wistful little foreword. The book, with its description of the Quakers in this neighborhood and their lives so long ago, evidently made her remember some of the beauties and joys of her own youth, which must already have been very different from the days described in the book, but which still are nearer to the past than anything we have today.

The book describes a day long past, but it is still a picture of the joys of country life we may savor today. Fundamentally, the heart of every tale is the story of some human love with its trials, fears, tragedies and joys, and this is no exception to the rule.

I am also reading with a great deal of pleasure a book called "We Too Are People," by Louise V. Armstrong. This is the story of a county in the state of Michigan, of its people and their struggles through the past few years. It is written with the obvious intention of making the nation realize that people on relief are still people, even as you and I. Some of them have a harder time over a long period due to circumstances which even you and I might not have met any more adequately. On some of them disaster has descended suddenly in a way it might descend on us. Added to the interest of the picture the author paints of the locality and its people, is the interest in the character of the writer, which merges without any apparent intention on her part. That character and personality must prove interesting and helpful to any of us.

As if it were not enough for us these days to read in the papers of the disasters which man himself brings upon this nation or that, we find every now and then that nature takes a hand as well. Yesterday, I read the account of the typhoon which struck Japan. In these tragedies which nature occasionally brings to various nations, the Red Cross usually is able to give the most prompt and efficient service. This should remind us of the fact that all who are interested in alleviating human suffering in any part of the world should give their constant support to this agency.

I returned from New York late yesterday afternoon and was very glad to be back in the country. I had a pleasant visit with a member of my family whom I had not seen for a long time, and did one or two necessary things. This is a glorious day and we are off to ride in the woods, which are free at last from flies and mosquitoes.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

If you are taller than your partner, young lady, don't try to minimize height by leaning forward. Let your knees bend slightly instead.

You'll Be Remembered As 'a Lively Sprite'

"We must have Mary and her clever taps," says enthusiastic party planners.

People remember you when you do a lively stunt—and tap dancing's such an inexpensive, easy stunt. Inexpensive because you can teach yourself with diagrams. Easy because, elaborate as tap movements may look, they're really just six basic steps combined in different ways.

You can learn those six steps in one evening—and tap right into such combinations as we've diagrammed. —Hop on left foot. 2—Front tap with right foot (hold foot back off floor, kick forward, making a sharp tap as you strike the floor). (3)—Back tap with right foot (reverse movement of front tap). 4—Jump to right foot.

To work up to a full-length tap routine, you just add more combinations, using more basic taps, lively steps like the Hop and Jump.

Fun—as you practice—to keep in mind what kind of party stunts you're going to do. Be a pirate as you tap through the rhythm buck—in raggedy shorts and a dashing big hat. As you waltz clog, be a sprite in a short frilly skirt. In a military buck, stamp around in slacks, a tight jacket.

Before you know it you'll be trying such Eleanor Powell tricks as tapping up and down stairs—and getting away with it!

Our 40-page booklet, SELF-INSTRUCTION IN TAP DANCING, takes you slowly from the basic taps to show routines—the waltz clog, buck, rhythm buck, and military buck. Diagrams make every step clear, show you how to fit your taps to music. Start now and be a hit at parties this fall.

Send 15c for our booklet, SELF-INSTRUCTION IN TAP DANCING, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Miss Parker Weds J. Robert Morgan At Home Ceremony

Miss Anne Elizabeth Parker, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Jarrett, became the bride of J. Robert Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Morgan, at a ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. H. G. Gazaway, on Candler road.

Rev. Roland Q. Leavell officiated and a musical program was presented by Miss Janette Gazaway, cousin of the bride.

Miss Parker and Mr. Morgan entered together and took their vows before an improvised altar formed of palms and beautified with floor baskets of white flowers. The house was decorated throughout with pastel-shaded flowers and greenery.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white lace fashioned along princess lines, the bodice of which was laced up the front. Her tulle veil was fastened to her hair by a spray of orange blossoms, and her flowers were valley lilies.

Mrs. J. C. Jarrett, mother of the bride, was given in a cobalt blue model worn with black accessories and offset by a shoulder spray of valley lilies.

Mrs. W. F. Morgan, mother of the groom, was attired in black lace and she wore a shoulder spray of valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mrs. H. G. Gazaway, aunt of the bride, entertained at a reception for members of the immediate family and bridal party.

In the dining room the lace-covered table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked on either side by artistic floral arrangements.

Mrs. Bessie Wahley, of Hapeville, served punch, and Miss Edna Felton kept the bride's book.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Jarrett and Miss Ernestine Fellers, of Columbia, South Carolina.

Miss Launius Becomes Bride Of Mr. Clyburn at Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Martha Lillie Launius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Launius, and Lewis Wade Clyburn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Clyburn, took place on Friday at Gordon Street Presbyterian church. Dr. T. C. Bales, of Clifton Forge, Va., officiated and a musical program was presented by Misses Josephine Johnson, organist, and Sylvia Schilling, soloist.

The altar was banked with palms and placed on either side were pedestals filled with pastel shaded summer blossoms. Four seven-branched cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers were placed amid the greenery.

Ushers were Peter Saunders and Charles Decker, and groomsmen were Edwin Burton and Donald Decker. Mrs. W. T. Tanksley, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids included Miss Ethelyn Clyburn, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Donald Decker.

Mrs. Tanksley wore tea rose lace fashioned over satin, and the other attendants wore blue marquisette over matching satin. Their gowns were all fashioned alike with becoming round necklines, puffed sleeves and full skirts flaring from the fitted bodices. They wore black bandeaux of flowers in their hair which matched their bouquets, the latter being old-fashioned bouquets of pastel summer flowers.

The lovely bride entered with her father, T. D. Launius, who gave her in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and the best man, Stanton McBrayer. Her wedding gown was a white mousseline over a satin slip of lustrous bridal white, and dotted with tiny white-ribbon bows. The gown featured a tight bodice and full double-tiered skirt with puffed sleeves and round neckline. Her illusion veil was edged with silk lace and fell to finger-tip length. The cap effect of silk lace, tied with a bow under the chin and was held in place by a bandeau of satin in back. Her flowers were a bouquet of white bride's roses showered with lilies of the valley and swainsonia. The bride's only ornament was a handsome diamond cross which hung from a gold neck-chain.

Mrs. T. D. Launius, mother of the bride, was gowned in blue silk lace and wore a corsage of rosebuds. Mrs. Sara Croom, grandmother of the bride, wore black triple sheer with a corsage of sweet peas.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Lewis Clyburn, wore boy-blue sheer and her flowers were rosebuds. Mrs. W. P. Holley, grandmother of the groom, was gowned in black crepe with a sweet pea corsage.

After the wedding, the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at their home in West End. The lace-covered table in the dining room was centered with a three-

Mr., Mrs. Nathan Honor Daughter

Among interesting events of Sunday was the open house at which Mr. and Mrs. Irving S. Nathan entertained at their home on Pasadena avenue, complimenting their daughter, Barbara Gail Nathan, in celebration of her first birthday anniversary.

Throughout the home, where the 150 guests gathered during the calling hours between 4 and 7 o'clock, quantities of pastel-shaded summer garden flowers were used in artistic arrangement as the decorations. The table in the dining room was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered with a large birthday cake upon which gleamed one candle. Encircling the cake were blue pottery candlesticks holding blue burning tapers. At one end of the table was a handsome cutglass punch bowl.

Forming a receiving line with the hosts were their daughter, and Mrs. Louis Shinbaum, of Montgomery, Ala., mother of the hostess, and Mrs. Jake Shinbaum, of Chattanooga, aunt of the hostess. The honor guest made an adorable figure in her model of pink liams, and Arthur Edmonds, Athel Scott, Thomas Lamb, David English, Charles English, J. C. Green, Fred Bowen, Jimmy McCloskey, Charlie Savarese, Clifton Jones, Bradford Ferguson and Glenn Jones.

Miss Dorothy Margolin Will Wed Earl Hirsh at Temple on Sept. 25

Interest centers in the announcement of the plans for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Margolin and Earl Hirsh, of Atlanta, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla., which will be solemnized on Sunday, September 25, at 11:30 o'clock at the Temple.

The ceremony will be performed by Dr. David Marx in the presence of the immediate families, and following the ceremony the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Bessie Margolin, will be hostess at a breakfast at her home on Greenwood avenue.

A number of prenuptial affairs honoring the bride-elect are being planned.

Among these will be the buffet supper at which Misses Helene Klenberg, whose engagement has been announced to Bernard Schneider, at a luncheon at which Mrs. Irvin L. Lutsky, sister of Miss Klenberg, will be hostess at 1 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel.

Other parties honoring Miss Margolin will be announced later.

Miss Sarah Sharpe And Fiance Fedet

Misses Viola and Ruth Martin entertained last evening at a buffet-supper at their home on RIVERS road honoring Miss Sarah Sharpe and her fiance, James Wilson III, whose marriage will be a social event of September 8.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a hand-made lace cloth and centered with a crystal bowl containing pastel shaded garden flowers flanked by crystal candelabra holding burning tapers.

Mrs. T. B. Martin, mother of the hostesses, assisted, and guests monogrammed table-napkins which were presented to Miss Sharpe at the close of the evening.

Guests included, in addition to the hostesses and honor guests, Misses Dorothy Wilson, Lucille Wilson, Frances Smith, Mesdames Thomas Wilson, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Joe Pruitt, of Macon; J. R. Bowdre and Frank Kelley.

For Miss Carlton And Mr. Skeen

Mr. and Mrs. Willard R. Leach will be hosts on September 11, at a spend-the-day party at their summer home, Tuckahoe on Lake Sequoyah, Tate Mountain Estates, honoring Miss Emily Carlton and her fiance, Arnold T. Skeen, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The hosts will be assisted in entertaining by their daughters, Misses Elizabeth Winslow and Emily Frances Leach, and their son, William Joel Leach.

Members of the Carlton-Skeen bridal party will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leach.

For Miss Livingstone

Miss Annie Lee Livingstone, of Orangeburg, S. C., the guest of Miss Virginia Kirkland, was honored on Sunday when Miss Betty Regenstein entertained 25 friends at a steak fry at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Regenstein, on Harris trail. 'The Lambeth Walk' Danced in Asheville By Younger Set ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 5.—A new dance, "The Lambeth Walk," imported from England to New York only a week ago, is being done already in Asheville. Introduced by representatives of a dance in New York, it was taken up quite rapturously by the college set assembled Monday evening at a prominent hotel for a dancing party.

Its step is a strut, not a truck, and it is gay and not difficult. A "square" dance, it can be done by four couples or any number over four.

Resort activities in Asheville show no sign of slackening with September. New arrivals for the Labor Day week end are being added in all the hotels to crowds of summer visitors remaining over.

The out-door sports are still going strong, and the Bachelors' Ball, an event in Asheville comparable to the balls given by the Nine O'Clocks in Atlanta, was a high light of Saturday at the Biltmore Forest Club, taking the form of a fancy dress affair.

Among prominent Atlantans arriving this week in Asheville are Mrs. Price Gilbert and Mrs. Francis Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins, Mrs. James E. Hickey and James Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Troutman, Miss Laura Troutman, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Winship, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bland and George A. Bland Jr., Mrs. Lowry Arnold and her sister, Mrs. Harvey Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who remain here until September 6.

Also taking part in Asheville social life are cottagers from near-by resorts, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Bulow Campbell and Miss Virginia Campbell with Miss Martha Berry and John Graham, of which, who have a house at Flat Rock, and Mrs. Robert Venable Roper and Austell Thornton who are at Biltmore Forest.

The program includes: "Chicago," "The Lambeth Walk," "You Go to My Head" (Martha Tilton).

FIBBER RETURNS—The Fibber McGee and Molly program, starring Miriam and Jim Jordan, will return to the air with the program to be heard over WSB at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

The program, which has been off the air for several weeks, will be heard weekly at the same time. Donald Novis, well known lyric tenor, will join the program as singing star.

Miss Allene Langford Weds Mr. Porter

MAYSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 3.—Announcements made of the marriage of Miss Allene Langford, of Mayville, to Carl F. Porter, of Jefferson, which took place on August 21. Rev. B. W. Hancock, co-officiant of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The lovely bride wore a navy blue suit with navy accessories and her shoulder spray was of white rosebuds. The bride attended North Georgia College and the University of Georgia and has been a teacher in the public schools of Jackson and Hall counties.

Mr. Porter is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Porter, pioneer citizens of Jackson county. Mr. Porter is a prominent farmer and businessman of the Dry Pond community.

After a wedding trip through the western states, the couple will reside at Dry Pond.

Carpenter-Jones Marriage Announced

CAVE SPRING, Ga., Sept. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert D. Carpenter announce the marriage of their daughter, Henrietta Helen, to William Thomas Jones, of Atlanta, which took place in Rome, June 25, at the home of Ordinary Harry Johnson, of Rome, twin sister and brother-in-law of the bride, were her only attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside in Atlanta.

Oliver-Gresham.

HELENA, Ga., Sept. 5.—Of interest throughout Georgia and Florida is the marriage of Miss Mattie Oliver, of Longview, Texas, and Morgan H. Gresham, of McGehee, which was solemnized at 12:30 o'clock at Eastman, Ga., by Judge John W. Jones, ordinary of Dodge county.

Mr. Gresham is employed on the Little Ocmulgee State park construction project, near Helena, and the couple will reside in McGehee pending completion of the project.

McKown Reunion

The annual reunion of the McKown family will be held at Grant Park pavilion, September 11, and all descendants of the McKown relation are invited to attend and bring a basket lunch. A piece of silver will be given for the largest attendance of the family here.

Crackers Split With Pebs; Can Cop Flag With 2 Wins Tonight

Healey Beats Horacek, 3-2, for Capital City Invitation Title

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

The idea seemed to be that you wouldn't play just one round of golf at the start of the season and then give up in disgust. Anyway, the temptation was pretty great. Like golf, you go into the fields for dove shooting and make a lot of bad shots. You get rather disgusted and may even say, "Oh, what the —" Then you make a good one.

It's probably accidental. But the fact remains that you made it. So you are eager to go back for more. The old spirit is buoyed again.

Really, it is no hard job for someone to talk you into arising at 2:30 or 3 o'clock in the morning in order to be on the edge of a cornfield or a pea patch or a wheat field at break o' day.

Naturally, as in golf, you don't play the same course every time. So it does not seem strange after that experience on opening day to find one's self seeking cover by the side of a pea patch.

This friend was very persuasive. "I know it's Labor Day and a lot of things are going on in sports. But I'll tell you what. We'll get out to this place before daybreak and by 9:30 o'clock you'll have the limit. You'll get back in plenty of time," he declared.

It's strange, indeed, why you will invariably fall for such talk.

You know how it is. You get enthused all over again. In your mind's eye you picture birds falling all around as you rake the field with a withering fire. Imagination is a wonderful thing.

The first hour passes. It still isn't good daylight yet. So you don't become impatient. You missed those first birds that came in because it was a bit too dark to see well.

The second hour passes. It's good and light now. But they're flying higher and are somewhat gun shy. That's not your fault, is it?

The third hour passes. The sun is steadily climbing into the heavens. You begin to think about that sleep you missed. And your feet hurt from standing around in one place for so long.

You haven't shot the limit, to say the least. In fact, as you reach around and feel in the sack, it amounts to a sort of empty gesture. And you wonder about those glowing promises you made to the little woman as she sleepily bade you "be careful." There was going to be a real bird supper.

But you had an out. Your friends had been very disconcerting with their steady fire above and below you. They were good fellows, you felt, and they wouldn't let you down when it came to dividing the birds.

IT'S A BIT TREMENDOUS.

There is one picture you can never forget in the fields. It is just before day when the dark field hands are starting off to begin the day's labors.

They strike up a song. Sometimes it will go like this in bass voice: "Day, yonder come day; day done broke, in my soul."

And they walk along silhouetted against the lightning sky with their implements slung across their shoulders. You don't even annoy the dove until they have passed from sight.

It's a bit tremendous—this picture. It stirs something inside. You grope for an explanation, but it doesn't come.

MATERIAL THINGS AGAIN.

You can't afford to be lost long in reverie because, invariably, there is that insulting sort of person along who will come by with a taunting grin on his face and blithely inquire, "How many birds have you got?"

This always is a trifle embarrassing and you have to fumble with explanations and give excuses. You had knocked several down but couldn't find them, so help you. Otherwise you'd be all set.

In this case it happened to be Kenneth Rogers, the crack photographer of The Constitution's staff of fine picture men.

Rogers was more insulting than usual. To make matters worse, he had insisted on using one of those .410 pop guns. You knew immediately how he had fared because he even had feathers sticking out from behind his ears.

"Do you play badminton?" he asked in what seemed to be a sort of sinister tone.

"If you do," he followed up, "I'd suggest that maybe you're wasting your time out here."

The old maxim is absolutely true—a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

HE CAN'T HURT US.

In such situations as this, a dash of philosophy always comes in handy. You start to thinking about things. And one story that always takes your mind off your troubles is the one about the fight manager and his boy.

He had sent his boy up against a very rugged customer and the sailing was not at all smooth. The manager's boy was arousing the customers' ire because of a desire to withdraw into a shell to duck the bombardment.

So the manager leaped up from his spot beside the ring and shouted, "Get on in there, son, he can't hurt us!"

A NEW SEASON OPENS.

The drone and crash of ball on maple will represent a familiar sound to several thousand Atlantans as a new bowling season opens tonight at Blick's center.

Bowling is one of Atlanta's most thriving winter sports. There is bowling in the summer, of course, but the season is in the winter time.

Then it is that some 3,000 people engage in healthy competition in the various leagues and many other unattached persons toss the duckpins for the exercise.

Ed Plant, the old maple pin maestro, is all set for a busy season. Plant, one of the finer public relations men, will shake more hands than a politician around election time during the course of the winter.

A SENSATIONAL DEBUT.

Quiet, unassuming Onnie Robinson, from Mars Hill, N. C., made a sensational Southern league debut for the Crackers yesterday.

Robbie has spent two seasons out in the bowl and pitcher leagues. He pitched one season for Panama City and this year had a record of 16 wins and 5 losses with a second-division Gadsden club.

Manager Paul Richards tossed Robinson into a tough spot. He named him to pitch the long game of

VICTORY GIVES ATLANTAN FIRST MAJOR CROWN

Both Finalists Were Dark Horses in Successful Tourney.

By ROY WHITE.

Bill Healey, a consistent championship flight golfer, crashed through to his first reward with a 3-2 victory over Joe Horacek Jr. Monday afternoon in Capital City's second annual invitation tournament.

It was Healey's first major victory of the year, after qualifying in the championship flight of many tournaments during the past few years. He shared second place with his brother, Oliver, one stroke behind Dick Garlington, the medalist, with a par 71 round.

DARK HORSE.

Neither Healey nor Horacek were given much of a chance to advance to the finals, but by some consistent golf throughout, both came through as dark horses in one of the finest tournaments that has been played here this year.

Healey beat Hugh Carter Jr., on the 18th green in the morning semi-finals as Horacek eliminated Weldon Doe, the long-driving Montgomery, Ala., ace on the 19th green.

A spectacular sub-par 34 on the back nine, after being one down at the turn saved the day for Healey and sent him into the finals against Horacek. Healey played fine golf on that back nine in the morning and continued steady with some extra good putting on the first nine of the afternoon round to gain a two-up advantage, going into the last nine.

RECOVERED GROUND.

Horacek recovered some of the lost ground at 10, but Healey played safe with three pars and a birdie and closed out the match on the 16th green.

In his path to the finals, Healey defeated Ike Osburn, 6-4, Ely Callaway, on the 19th green, and Carter one up, as Horacek beat Ivan Allen Jr., 5-3, Dewitt Wilcox, 7-5, and Doe on the 19th green.

Dick Garlington won the medal for the second straight time, but went out in the first round along with Charles Dannels Jr., one of the tournament favorites. Although they were "at home," Capital City players did not monopolize the trophies and prizes in the lower flights.

Jim Dudley, Athens, won the championship consolation; Cliff Eley, East Lake, won the second, and Carroll Latimer, Capital City, won the third consolation. Frank Mulherin, Augusta, and former Georgia amateur champion, won the fourth, and W. A. Parker, of Capital City, won the consolation; Yank Ludwig, Capital City, won the fourth, and Bill Goodie Jr., Valdosta, won the consolation; Dan Gotesman, a municipal player, won the fifth, with Paul Brown winning the consolation; C. E. Bettis, West End, won the sixth, and Hal Dumas, Capital City, won the consolation; Dolph Braxton, the seventh, and T. A. Stephenson, the consolation; Bill Goodie Sr., Valdosta, the eighth, and George Sherrill, Capital City, the consolation.

B. B. Lesesne won the ninth and W. F. Iron, Druid Hills, the consolation, and Paul Mitchell won the tenth and Bob Maddox, Capital City, the consolation. SEMI-FINAL RESULTS. Championship Flight. Bill Healey beat Joe Horacek Jr., 1 up, 19 holes. Consolation. Jim Dudley beat Bobby Dodd, default. Ivan Allen Jr. beat Charles Dannels Jr., default. Second Flight. Cliff Eley beat Harvey Hill, 1 up, 19 holes. Billy Johnson beat Gerrard Allen, 1 up, 19 holes. Consolation. Carroll Latimer beat J. Berman, 2-1. H. R. Louderback beat Tom Clarke, 3-2. Third Flight. Frank Mulherin beat Dan Sage, 6-5. Dr. Fred Minnich beat H. Nunnally, 3-2. Consolation. W. A. Parker beat Alvin Cooleedge, 6-5. W. W. Doe beat David Jones, default. Fourth Flight. George Harris beat Billy Little, 7-5. Yank Ludwig beat Chip Robert Jr., 1 up. Consolation. Gilmer MacDougall beat R. H. White Jr., 3-2. Bill Goodie Jr. beat Norris Browles, 1 up. Fifth Flight. Dan Gotesman beat Ed Bruce, 5-4. Jiroud Jones beat Charlie Nunnally, 5-3. Consolation. Charles Currie beat J. P. Allen Jr., 1 up. Brown beat M. H. Boyer, default. Sixth Flight. Jim Tutton beat Hanahan, 2-1. C. E. Bettis beat Cabell Hopkins, 6-4. Consolation. Hal Dumas beat James Dunlap, default. C. W. Currie beat A. Lippitt, 5-4. Seventh Flight. Alford Kennedy Jr. beat Bob French, 1 up. Dolph Braxton Jr. beat Charles Sciple Jr., 7-5. Consolation. T. A. Stephenson beat David Hamilton, 1 up, 20 holes. H. R. Northcutt beat Monie Ferst, 1 up. Eighth Flight. Jack Adair beat R. D. Iron, 1 up, 19 holes. Bill Goodie Sr. beat Smack Garlington, 7-5. Consolation. George Sherrill beat Lewis Smith, 1 up. Billy Wardlaw beat D. H. Lippitt, 1 up. Ninth Flight. B. B. Lesesne beat Bob Blasengame, 7-5. Lee Godfrey beat Jack Glenn, 1 up, 19 holes. Consolation. W. F. Iron beat W. Nunnally, 1 up. H. P. Ford beat Grady Black, 5-4. Tenth Flight. Paul Mitchell beat W. B. Spann, 1 up, 21 holes. R. A. Marshall beat Joe Wofford, default. Consolation. R. F. Maddox beat W. R. Massengale, 5-4. George Ripley Jr. beat Russell Green, default.

FINALISTS. Championship Flight. B. Healey beat Horacek, 3-2.

HARLEY TAYLOR AND PETE CRAIG FIRST IN RACES

Speedy Goff and Gordon Bracken Other South-erners To Win.

Southern drivers stole the rain-abbreviated speed show at Lakewood Park Monday after some 10,000 Labor Day sports fans braved threatening weather to fill the grandstand to a comfortable capacity.

Speedy Goff, of Birmingham; Harley Taylor and Pete Craig, of Atlanta, and Gordon Bracken, of Bainbridge, were winners of the four competitive events on a track made heavy by a morning down-pour.

Goff, driving Joe Gluck's Cragar No. 21, came from behind to cop first dough in the first four-mile heat race, restarted after Ed Eng, Jacksonville speed merchant, spun through the grandstand turn and crashed into the outer fairgrounds fence bordering Lakewood avenue. Despite the fact Eng's car was demolished, the plucky driver escaped with a broken collar bone and minor facial cuts. The event had gone two miles when Eng crashed, and when the sprint was restarted, Goff forged ahead of Bracken on the last lap to win. Bracken was second; Taylor was third, and Red Beal, of Knoxville, fourth. The time was 3:13, fast for the muddy track.

Pete Craig, of Atlanta, was never headed in the second four-mile heat race. Taking the lead at the drop of the flag he sailed to an easy victory in 3:21. Tip Lan-thier, of Winder, a comparative newcomer, pressed Craig near the finish to win second place, while Floyd Hunt, of Knoxville, was third, and Red Moore, of St. Louis, was fourth.

Harley Taylor held to his Southern championship crown by winning the Diamond Donor Dixie Derby, a five-mile event, turning the distance in 3:49.8. Bracken was second, Goff third, Beal fourth and Tom Elmore, of Jacksonville, fifth. Taylor received the handsome diamond trophy in addition to the heavy cash.

Gordon Bracken took the lead at the flag in the three-mile Champagne helmet dash and although Goff and Taylor pressed him all the way, he romped home the victor. Taylor was second and Goff third. Time, 2:28.4.

ROOKIE HOLDS PEBS TO 8 HITS

Onnie Robinson, who came to the Crackers recently from Gadsden, Ala., where he was farmed, pitched a shutout yesterday in his first game, the Richards nine winning 1 to 0. Robinson's record in the Southeastern league was among the most impressive.

'The Boy's Got It,' Says Richards of Robinson

Paul Likes Rookie's Coolness Under Fire; Was Recommended By Rucker.

By JACK TROY.

Paul Richards was sitting in Earl Mann's office after yesterday's double-header and had a trace of a grin on his face as he talked about Onnie Robinson's pitching.

"The boy's got it," Richards said. "He is already a fine pitcher and he's going to be great."

"Robbie's curve ball drops straight down and his fast ball slides. He doesn't look like he's throwing very hard but that ball bounces in there."

"His temperament is another fine thing in his favor. He takes his time and doesn't worry about the tough spots," Richards said.

CAROLINA PRODUCT. Bobbie was a schoolboy when Nap Rucker recommended him to the Crackers two years ago. He had been pitching semi-pro ball around Mars Hill, N. C., his home.

As far as demeanor is concerned, Robbie was then as he is now—quiet, modest and, boiled down to his essential oils, a bit bashful.

He is as silent as Tom Sunkel. He rarely ever speaks unless spoken to.

1938 BOWLING SEASON OPENS HERE TONIGHT

22 Teams in Three Leagues Begin Annual Duckpin Campaign.

The curtain will be raised on the tenth annual bowling season at 7:30 o'clock this evening, with 22 teams in three separate leagues rolling for season record marks as they assist in the official opening of pin activities at the downtown bowling center.

The Amateur league will be scheduled on alleys 17 through 24. The Gate City league will have alleys 39 through 46 and the Southern Waxed Referee league will have alleys 33 through 38.

While all three leagues are highly competitive with the teams well balanced, the Gate City league has the higher team average and is rated as the second highest average league in the city of Atlanta. So, plenty of sparkling scores are due to be written into the records before the three league games have been finished.

Rivalry will undoubtedly be keener than ever in team competition as the leagues are more evenly balanced than in any previous season.

More interest has been registered by the women than in any previous year, with six new teams being added to league competition by the fair pin-smashers this season. The ladies' leagues open their schedules next week as do many of the other men's bowling loops.

Newly resurfaced and freshly polished alleys, gleaming new pins and colored mottled bowling balls will assist bowlers in rolling the big scores that they hope to contribute to their team's total.

Schedule for the bowling season opening tonight is: Gate City league, Power Club vs. Jellico Coal Company; Sinclair Training Company vs. Engineering Contractors; Genuine Parts Company with Atlantic Steel Company; Carlyle-Reynolds Hardware Company vs. Atlanta Motor Boat Club.

Amateur league, General Electric vs. Railway Mail, Delta Air Lines vs. Grinnell company; Southern Dairies vs. Randall Bros.; United Motors Service vs. Kraft-Phenix Cheese.

Southern Wax Paper, six teams of company employees scheduled.

DUGAN GRAPPLES LONDOS TONIGHT

Three matches and a battle royal will be presented on tonight's wrestling program at the new Hampill arena at the corner of Hemphill avenue and Fourteenth street, N. W.

Red Dugan has asked for it and tonight fans will see if he can give and take it as well when he and Young Londos battle for the city wrestling championship.

Dugan is on the spot in the 90-minute match. He challenged Young Londos several times before Londos finally consented to meet him.

There are to be two 90-minute features—the Londos-Dugan engagement and another bringing together Son Almond who was married in the ring last Friday night. Son meets Wild Bill Collins, the College Park Terror.

Another very promising match is the one in which Dynamite Jack McAdams meets Young Gitch, of Miami, Fla. This will be a one-hour battle.

ONNIE ROBINSON BLANKS PEBS, 1-0 IN GREAT DEBUT

Travelers Gain Even Break by Taking Night-cap, 4 to 2.

By JACK TROY.

Onnie Robinson, rookie right-hander from the Southeastern league, made a sensational debut as a Cracker yesterday by beating the Pebbles, 1 to 0, in the first game of a double-header.

Robinson scattered eight hits, no two of which came in the same inning.

Kerksieck pitched brilliantly for Little Rock, but the Crackers punched two of their four hits in the second inning to win the game.

Robbie, the rookie sensation, held the slim lead. He showed a coolness under fire and in all tight spots which commanded admiration.

FOUNDED PRITCHETT. Ted Pritchett to win the second game, 4 to 2. A seventh-inning Cracker rally which sent Garland Braxton to the showers gave the Pebs a mighty scare. The Crackers got four straight hits before Sayles, who replaced Braxton, could get the situation in hand.

Buster Chatham figured prominently in the Crackers' slight attack in the two games. He doubled and scored on Peters' single in the opener and the drove in the only two runs with a single in the seventh.

The Crackers definitely had no punch. They got only 10 hits to the Pebs' 17. Lindsay Deal's second-game homer started the winning rally in the fifth inning.

The split left the Crackers with only two games to win to sew up the Southern league pennant. They have seven left to play and can clinch the flag with a double victory tonight.

A double-header is scheduled tonight, starting at 7:30. Kola Sharpe and Brazle are due to pitch for the Pebs, opposing probably Pete Stein and Bill Beckman. Stein is a big right-hander.

Pritchett got in a hole from the start in the second game. He walked Graham. Snyder filed to Mauldin. Pritchett delivered a wild pitch and Graham went to second, Deal's single to center scored Graham.

The Pebs scored again in the fourth. Campbell and Nagel singled and Cella sacrificed. Schalk filed to Chatham and Campbell scored after the catch.

There were two more Pebble runs in the fifth. With two away, Deal hit a home run over the right field sign. Campbell beat out an infield hit. Richards threw wild attempting to catch Campbell stealing and Campbell went all the way home.

TWO HITS.

The Crackers, held to two hits for six innings, unloaded on Braxton in the seventh and got him out. Hill, Malibo and Richards hit successive singles. Sayles replaced Braxton, and Chatham singled, scoring Hill and Malibo. Ipscomb, however, struck out. Rose batted for Peters and filed to Cella. Will-

U. S. Retains Davis Cup as Don Budge Defeats Adrian Quist

JACK BROMWICH DEFEATS RIGGS IN FINAL MATCH

Foot Faults Ruin Chances of Quist; Bromwich Superb.

By PAUL MICKELSON.
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 5.—It took the great Don Budge one hour and eight minutes, record-breaking time even for that War Admiral of tennis, to polish off Adrian Quist, of Australia, at the Germantown Cricket Club today and keep the gigantic Davis cup in the United States for another year.

Rising very near to his peak form when the pressure was on, the flaming red head from the Golden Gate won the third and conclusive point in the international series in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, as the veteran Quist fell victim of elementary foot faults and collapsed amidst the hoots of 6,000 most of whom believed the foot-fault judge had been and was in the final hour of the hopelessly outclassed men from down under.

Though the final match was a mere formality, young Jack Bromwich, of Australia, took the final singles, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2, as Bobby Riggs, freshman of the American team, to make the final challenge round count three matches to two in America's favor. Riggs played as if the final match was an exhibition an didn't seem to try as Bromwich, carrying on from his great play in yesterday's doubles, worked as if the cup rested on the outcome.

FOOT FAULTS.
The foot faults, called by Harold A. Bair, a tall, thin man who seemed to give Quist the "evil eye" every time he served from the south side of the court, were justly called. All the judges and non-playing Captain Harry Hopman, of the Australian team, admitted so. Quist, a notorious offender of the fault-foot rule, became too anxious as he led Budge, 6-5, in the initial set. It was then that he was first called—twice in a row—and as suddenly he lost his temper and his balance on the baseline. Budge, quick to take advantage, ran right out to win three games and the set.

Never again was he headed or threatened. It took him only 38 minutes to win the concluding two sets over which he yielded but three games, two of them quite graciously at love.

Quist, figured to give Budge a battle, figured the torch bearer of the American team had looked so badly off form in the opening singles and doubles matches, started out at a dazing pace.

He broke Budge's service at 4-2 as Don banged four points away into the nets. Budge retaliated by busting Quist's service by the same margin, but fell behind, 3-1, as Quist again broke his service and held his own.

As his cup mates grew alarmed, Budge took charge right there and all but blew Quist off the courts.

'How Can They Hit 'Em If They Can't See 'Em?'

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, Who Pitches Here Thursday Night, Operates on That Theory.

By THAD HOLT.
Burleigh Grimes, leader of the Daffy Dodgers, remarked the other day during a discussion relative to the collapse of the Dean-Hubbell-Mungo pitching arms that in this day of the lively ball, a pitcher doesn't need skill. "He needs courage," he moaned.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, who is slated to burn them over against Dave Harris' Warren team here Thursday night, doesn't agree with Burleigh on that point. But then young Mr. Trucks is regarded by such veteran scouts as Johnny Nease, of the Yankees, and Eddie Gossett, of Detroit, as the fastest pitcher in the game. Little wonder that he doesn't fear the hitters whose drives offer a constant threat to opposing moundsmen.

Trucks, baseball's strikeout champion of all times, operates on the theory "how they gonna hit 'em when they can't see 'em?"

As this phenomenon of the diamond sees it, the batter is the one who takes the risk—particularly the hitter who digs in and takes a toehold. Because it is not easy to duck a ball that comes at you like a shot from a cannon. And that is just the way the fast one of the Andalusia express comes in there. Of course Virgil doesn't throw the bean ball. He prays one of his fast ones with the baffling hop never swings from his intended course. But he realizes that the batter and not Virgil Trucks is taking the most risk on the days and nights he pitches.

Atlanta will be afforded the opportunity of seeing a 19-year-old sensation who has fanned the amazing total of 420 batters in a comparatively short Alabama-Florida league season when Trucks and his Andalusia stars come to town. They will see a smoke ball that is said to make Bobby Feller's fast one look like a change of pace. And they'll get a closeup of the young man who is expected to be one of the great stars of the majors from the moment he reports to the Detroit Tigers next spring.

It will be a ball game, nothing far from it. Dave Harris has a good club in the Warren team, which holds victories over some of the best semi-pro outfits in the south. Trucks will have to bear down, because Warren has shown the ability to hit top-notch pitching all year.

The game is set for 8:30 o'clock and the price of admission will make it possible for all baseball lovers to attend.

Phils and Giants Split; Bees Capture Two From Dodgers.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The Cincinnati Reds swept both ends of a double-header with St. Louis yesterday, 4 to 3 and 4 to 2, to move within four games of the league-leading Pirates. A crowd of 26,297 saw Bill McKechnie's men hammer out a total of 25 hits in two contests.

Cincinnati clouted two St. Louis hurriers for a dozen hits in gaining a victory in the first game. Harry Craft hit his 14th home run of the year in the eighth, off of Ray Harrell.

Chicago's cannonading Cubs put a couple of slugs in Pittsburgh's pennant plans with a double defeat, 3 to 0 and 4 to 3, which cut the Pirates' margin to its lowest ebb in some six weeks.

A crowd of 42,545 paid customers, third largest of the season, watched the proceedings.

The Phillies took the second game of a double-header from the New York Giants, 3 to 0, after dropping the first 7 to 0, when Cliff Melton allowed them only three hits.

The Boston Bees made a clean sweep of their double-header with the Brooklyn Dodgers, topping the opener victory of 5-4 with a 4-3 victory in the nightcap.

In the second game, Pitcher Fette chalked up his 11th victory of the season.

YANKS, RED SOX AND CLEVELAND WIN TWIN BILLS

Gehrig Ties Ruth's Mark With 13th Straight 100-R.B.I. Season.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Spud Chandler and Monte Pearson gained their 14th victories of the season yesterday as 35,567 customers whelp the Athletics twice, 5-2 and 6-3, but it was iron horse Lou Gehrig who provided most of the historic moments.

By driving in two runs in the nightcap, for a season total of 101, the big first baseman topped 100 runs driven home for the 13th straight season to break his own major league record and equal Babe Ruth's lifetime total. When Lou crossed the plate on Bill Dickey's home run in the seventh frame of the same game, for his 100th run, it marked the 12th year in a row that he has hit the century mark in scoring.

Chandler scattered the eight hits he allowed the A's in the opener, while George Selkirk started off the Yankee attack with his tenth four-bagger in the second inning. Singles by Ross, Sperry and Finney and an infield out accounted for both the losers' tallies.

Joe DiMaggio hit safely in each game to run his hitting streak to 15.

The Cleveland Indians won both games of a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 4 and 4 to 2, to run their string of consecutive triumphs to seven. Willis Hudlin held the Sox to nine scattered hits in the nightcap after Al Milnar stopped them in the opener.

The Detroit Tigers split a double-header with the St. Louis Browns, taking the six-inning nightcap, called on account of darkness, 9 to 3, after Eldon Auker had been injured by a batted ball and was unable to continue on the mound. The Browns won the opener behind the four-hit pitching of Howard Mills, 3 to 2.

The Boston Red Sox defeated Washington, 14 to 4, today in the first game of a holiday double-header. Fritz Ostermuller went the route for the Sox while the Senators used Appleton, Weaver, DeShong and Kelley.

Boston turned in 19 hits after a scoreless first inning. Boston won the second game, 8-6.

RACER KILLED.
MORRISTOWN, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—G. R. Hancock Jr., 21-year-old race driver from Owensboro, Ky., was killed this afternoon while attempting to qualify for the Labor Day automobile races here.

ORANGE-CRUSH DEFIES YOU! CURSES! LICKED BY THAT NEW BROWN BOTTLE!

HERE'S WHY WE PUT Orange-Crush IN THE SAFEST BOTTLE UNDER THE SUN!

We admit that sunlight is a grand thing...

But it sure does play hob with a lot of delicately flavored beverages! It penetrates ordinary white bottles and steals the flavor, before the bottle is ever opened!

That's why we put Orange-Crush carbonated beverage in the New Brown Flavor-Guarding Bottle—The bottle that seals in all of Orange-Crush's delicate flavor, until the very moment you drink it!

Try Orange-Crush in this new Brown Bottle. Notice for yourself how you get every last bit of that frosty, fresh-fruit flavor! And remember, there is no increase in price—wholesome* Orange-Crush is still only five cents a bottle.

*Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau!

DRINK Orange-Crush CARBONATED BEVERAGE IN THE NEW, BROWN FLAVOR-GUARDING BOTTLE!

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY No. 98

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Three of the ptores charged Tarzan and Herk at once. The attackers had no advantage; they were more familiar with the water medium in which they fought. But this advantage was outweighed by the strength and agility of the Jungle Lord. He slew them all.

Only one ptores remained. He turned and fled. Tarzan, however, dared not allow him to carry word back to the temple. The ape-man pursued and quickly overhauled his quarry. The ptores whirled, leaped above the ape-man and drove down with his trident.

Tarzan dodged, seized his antagonist by an ankle and pulled him down. Now at close quarters, they dropped their tridents and drew knives. The ape-man slashed savagely, but awkwardly, at the ape-man, who sought in turn to seize his adversary's knife wrist.

Tarzan had almost succeeded when a large fish swam suddenly against his legs and upset him. As he toppled backward, the alert ptores saw his opportunity and seized it. He lunged forward, desperately, to plunge his knife into the heart of the helpless Tarzan!

Today in Atlanta's History

One year ago today,

Monday, September 6, 1937. Governor E. D. Rivers finished sixth today in a seven-man yacht race in the Gulf of Mexico off New Orleans. The six other yachts were manned by southeastern governors.

Two years ago today,

Sunday, September 6, 1936. Atlanta and Georgia workers made ready for what is expected to be the largest Labor Day parade in the state's history.

Five years ago today,

Wednesday, Sept. 6, 1933. One hundred convicts in camp at Dallas, Ga., burned their barracks as guards and officers threw tear gas bombs in effort to quiet them. None of the prisoners escaped.

Ten years ago today,

Thursday, September 6, 1928. Jaycees launched a $6,000 drive to send the Atlanta police band to Havana, Cuba, to play at the convention of the Spanish-American War Veterans.

Fifteen years ago today,

Thursday September 6, 1923. J. W. Minter, Coweta county planter, was found guilty of slaying his son-in-law, Millard Trouton, in a case where he pleaded the in-law was "abusive" to his daughter. The jury did not recommend mercy.

Twenty years ago today,

Friday, September 6, 1918. Atlantans learned that the first scheduled airmail delivery from Chicago to New York city was delivered this morning.
